ORDERS JURY TRIAL FOR DEAN WILL CASE

COOLIDGE TO BE ACTIVE IN HOOVER CAMPAIGN

What Did Hoover Say to Coolidge? Is Rogers' Query

(Special To The News)

BEVERLY HILLS, Cal., July 17.—We all know what the airplane has done in war, commerce, science and business, but today we get a touch of it from the social angle.

Fred Stone, our most respected and versatile actor, arrives from New York City in his own plane to pay myself and family a visit. He carries a pilot, but he can steer the thing himself. There is nothing that guy can't learn.

Hoover called on Dawes yesterday. Charley told him, "Hell and Maria, I am glad I won't have to listen to that gang another four years."

Today Herbert runs into Calvin. Now wouldn't you just like to really know what those two say? Fish with goiters get a rest today.

Yours,

WILL.

PA NEWC OBSERVES

According to young David McBride of Hazlecroft avenue, this is the year that the 17-year locusts will be here, as he has already captured a specimen in this locality.

Slippery Rock township road supervisors are planning to improve the Frew Mill road by cindering or slagging it, according to announcement recently.

Going away on a vacation? Take a tip from Pa Newc and have The News follow you every day. Better than a dozen letters from home.

H. D. Leslie of the Pulaski road enters the field with a claim for the first ripe tomatoes from his own garden this season. He picked three ripe ones in his garden yesterday, he reports.

One place where the weed cutters should get busy is on the vacant property at the northwest corner of Leasure and Highland avenues. Sort of looks like a miniature jungle.

The new electric sign on The News building is now working on official schedule. The entire mechanism is now complete and the sign has officially started on the job last night.

For the past few days the traffic sign at Mercer and North streets has been a little on the blink. The red light has failed to show when drivers were approaching the signal from the north on Mercer street. The other lights were showing properly.

Today the steam shovel which is preparing Albert street for paving in the near future continues its work, which was started Monday morning. At the present time the shovel is working at the lower end of the street, near Leasure avenue. Of course, it is all for progress, but some of those people who live on Albert street wish that someone would invent a silent steam shovel, for their morning naps are rudely broken.

Pa Newc feels that he has accomplished something at last. Two of the highest stretches of weeds on the North Hill have now been cut, and once again one can walk along the street in the early morning without being ducked with dew.

If there are any motorists in Lawrence county who do not have their headlights focussed as yet it is not the fault of the state highway patrol. Almost every evening these boys are on one or another of the county's roads, stopping cars and examining their lights. And even when they find a man who does not have his lights adjusted to conform with the law they are very courteous about it.

While riding along the country roads early Monday evening Pa Newc saw some fields of corn which really were pictures. It seems that growing weather is here at last. Before the recent hot weather the corn fields of the county looked sadly bedraggled.

The drive to increase the enrollment of the New Castle Motor Club is progressing steadily. While the object, to many, seems almost impossible to attain, yet it will be reached. Five thousand members is CEDAR ISLAND LODGE, Wis., July 17.—Herbert Hoover was determined today to base his drive for the presidency on the two great issues of Republican prosperity and competent governmental management as evidenced in the Coolidge administration.

This was the principal development of the Republican nominee's conference with President Coolidge at the summer White House. These issues previously received the endorsement of Vice President Charles G. Dawes and of many high Republican leaders who saw the nominee before he left Washington.

Hoover will emphasize these two issues in his speech of acceptance to be delivered August 11 at Leland

Over 150 Employes Of Ford Plant At Somerville, Mass., Eat Poisoned Food

(International News Service)

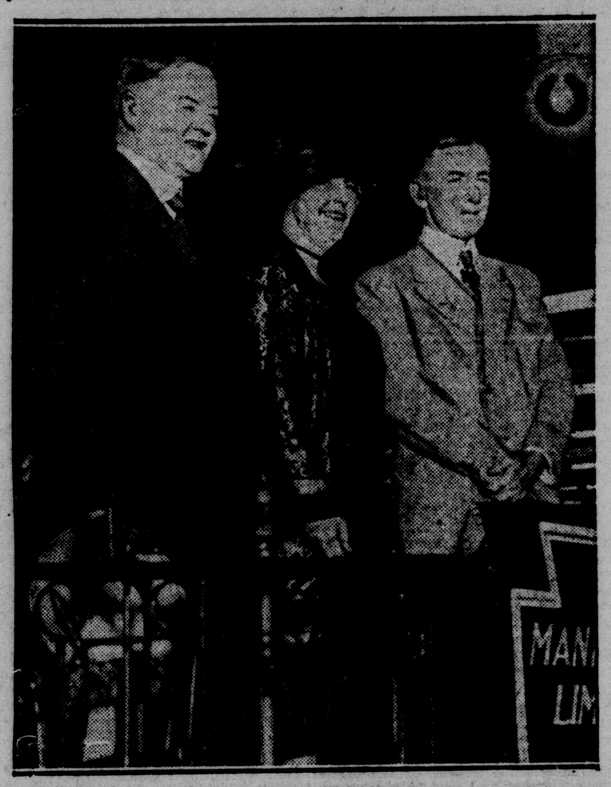

BOSTON, July 17.—Chemists and physicians today were engaged in an examination and analysis of food from a large chain restaurant system in an effort to discover the source of food poisoning of more than 150 persons, including 60 employes of the Ford Motor company's assembling plant in Somerville.

While hospitals, filled with victims in great pain, reported that only one patient was in a serious way, the chemical and medical experts of the state, city and restaurant system were first looking into samples of chocolate cream pie eaten from box lunches by all the victims.

The chocolate cream pie ingredients—milk, eggs, flour and chocolate—were being closely examined.

Seventy-two persons were under treatment in five Boston hospitals, having suffered a night of pain. At least 75 more were at their homes, having been treated at hospitals or by family physicians.

TWELVE MEN STILL MISSING IN FROZEN NORTH AS RESULT OF DISASTER TO "ITALIA"

By EDWARD L. DEUSS
International News Service Staff Correspondent

MOSCOW, July 17.—With six members of the Nobile expedition and six members of the Amundsen relief squad still missing, the 10,000-ton Russian ice breaker Krassin was on its way to Spitzbergen today to refuel and to transfer to the Citta Di Milano the seven members of the Nobile party that had been rescued from the ice.

There are 16 rescued men in all aboard the Krassin, the other nine being members of relief groups that had been searching for the lost explorers. All on board the ice breaker were described as being in good health and spirits save Alfredo Mariano, who is still suffering from his frozen leg. As reported by wireless last Thursday, the ship's doctor fears gangrene may develop.

The Soviet relief committee met this afternoon to decide whether the Krassin should continue the search for the Alessandri and Amundsen parties. The committee is inclined to press the search until there is definite ground for abandoning all hope, de-

Knight Templars Parade Detroit; Fine Spectacle

Estimate 35,000 Knight Templars Parade In Detroit; First Session Starts

(International News Service)

DETROIT, July 17.—Detroit today was treated to the greatest spectacle in the history of Masonry when 35,000 Knights Templar paraded through the downtown streets.

A quarter of a million people on housetops, in windows, on porticoes, in grandstands along the line of march and at the curb watched the seemingly endless procession.

After the last parade unit had disbanded, the grand encampment officers met in Masonic temple where the gavel fell on the first business session of the 37th triennial conclave.

While the grand officers were transacting business the majority of the 200,000 knights and their wives renewed the ceaseless round of entertainment.

Three cities are bidding for the 1931 convention, with Minneapolis conceded to have the strongest chance. Portland, Ore., and Boston also are seeking the conclave.

Hearing Before Judge Chambers Closes Abruptly

Court Decides In Favor Of Jury Hearing Case When Issue Is Raised

CASE WILL LIKELY BE HEARD IN FALL

Few Witnesses For Defendants Heard When Case Is Ended Before Court

Testimony in the will of Mrs. Nellie M. Dean, which has been before Judge James A. Chambers in Lawrence county court since Monday, July 9, came to an abrupt end this morning when the court awarded an issue to the court of common pleas. In the terms of a layman this means that the case will now be tried in the court of common pleas by a jury, probably sometime in October.

The decision of Judge Chambers came after a lengthy argument between counsel for beneficiaries under the will and counsel for the petitioners who are seeking to break it. At the opening of court this morning Attorney W. Walter Braham presented a motion toward an issue to the court of common pleas, basing his motion on the argument that the testimony heard thus far in the case had raised a substantial issue as to the validity of the will.

Vigorously Opposed

Attorney C. H. Akens, counsel for the petitioners, opposed the motion vigorously, arguing that the motion came too late and that the court was better qualified to hand down a decision in the case than a jury would be.

To this Attorney Braham replied that he did not question the ability of the court to determine the issue raised, but that the litigants would have more confidence in the ultimate outcome if the case went to the ultimate fact trying tribunal, a jury.

Following the argument and a long consultation with Judge Hildebrand, Judge Chambers said, "while the court is not unwilling to assume its responsibility in the matter, yet in an application such as has been made here we believe there is such a dispute as demands the court should certify this case to the court of common pleas, and we will award such an issue."

Radio Commission Power Threatened By Court Action

Small Radio Station Operators To Take Cases To Court If Ousted August 1

(International News Service)

WASHINGTON, July 17.—Fear that the Federal Radio commission's proposed wide-spread readjustment of Radio broadcasting may be held up by court attacks was expressed by members today as the commission resumed consideration of pleas of operators of small stations for a new lease of life after August 1.

While still hoping that the commission may modify its plan to take 162 stations off the air August 1, small operators here at the hearing plainly indicated that they will not abide by its final decision.

A plan to go into the District of Columbia supreme court seeking an injunction against the commission after August 1 was discussed at a meeting of several small station owners.

Should the matter go into court, an attack will be made on the constitutionality of the Dill-White Radio law, as well as the alleged arbitrary use of discretion by the commission, it was said

Swarm Of Bees Arrives At Neshannock Ave. Home; Prepares For Long Stay

Mr. and Mrs. Byron W. Cover of 455 Neshannock avenue have about decided to go into the honey business.

At least, it has been decided for them whether they want to or not, for yesterday afternoon a great swarm of bees arrived at the Cover home and decided to settle permanently. The bees lodged themselves between the plaster and siding of the house and today they are the busiest family in New Castle.

The doorway for the bees was a small augur hole that was about twenty feet above the ground in the wall of the house. Soon after this busy little army's arrival, the queen bee discovered the hole in the wall and led her willing flock into the new home. The swarm was so large and the door of the hole so small that it took a good four hours for the new family to move in.

The space between the plaster and the siding is about four inches wide and there the Cover boarders are staying and buzzing around with such a noise that the din of the work is plainly audible some distance away.

The situation in Southern California is better, although the town of Santee, near San Diego, is said to be directly in the path of a blaz

SEE FURTHER INCREASE IN STEEL BUSINESS

(International News Service)

PITTSBURGH, July 17.—Indications that increasing activity in the steel business is expected during the latter part of the year was evidenced today by the announcement by the Carnegie Steel Company, subsidiary of the United States Steel Corporation, here, of an advance of $2 a ton in the prices of bars, plates and shapes for fourth quarter delivery.

This advance makes the minimum price $2 a hundred pounds from Pittsburgh. A short time ago an advance of $1 a ton was announced. The effect of this quotation was a rush on the part of consumers to get their orders under the old quotations.

Prices have been making a steady march up since last October, when they reached their low point. This last advance of the Carnegie Company returns the prices to the level which prevailed early in 1927 before continued price-cutting carried quotations down $5 a ton.

Other independent steel producers are expected to follow the Carnegie Steel Company in making the advance.

General Nobile Reported Sorry He Was Rescued

Declares He Regrets That He Was Taken From Ice Floe First

(International News Service)

BERLIN, July 17.—Gen. Umberto Nobile, leader of the ill fated Polar voyage, is now sorry he allowed himself to be rescued first from the ice, according to a dispatch from Prague today quoting private radiograms received there from Fraulein Behounek. Nobile made this statement aboard the Citta Di Milano to Fraulein Behounek herself, it was stated.

The fraulein is a sister of F. Behounek, of Czechoslovakia, a member of the Nobile expedition, who is now a refugee on board the Russian ice breaker. He was a member of the Viglieri group that was picked up from the ice by the Krassin last Friday night.

When news of the Italia disaster reached her Fraulein Behounek left Prague late in May for Forking's Bay, Spitzbergen. She has been there ever since keeping in touch with the rescue efforts. After visiting Gen. Nobile on board the Citta Di Milano, Fraulein Behounek sent word that she believed the explorer's health is permanently impaired by his physical sufferings.

According to the messages from the Czecholslovakian girl, Nobile said he was persuaded to leave the floe by Behounek and Lundborg, the Swedish aviator who eventually carried him off. Nobile said Lundborg threatened to fly back to his base empty handed unless he consented to go.

Suspend Two In Mississippi P. O. Probe Case

(International News Service)

WASHINGTON, July 17.—Perry W. Howard, negro Republican national committeeman from Mississippi and attorney in the department of justice office, and Scott Hubbard, U. S. Marshal for the Southern Mississippi district, indicted at Biloxi, Miss., for conspiracy in the sale of federal offices, today were suspended by Acting Attorney-General William D. Mitchell.

A formal order was issued by Mitchell, who at the same time said that the action did not "prejudge the case against the men."

The suspension, it was said would be effective until the two office holders have cleared themselves or been convicted in the Biloxi case. Mitchell added that there was nothing unusual in his action.

Howard, who has been doing special work in the court of claims section of the department, was awaiting receipt of a capias from Biloxi. He planned to give bond before a U. S. commissioner here.

spite the intimations from Premier Mussolini of Italy and Gen. Umberto Nobile that further aid from the Soviets is not desired evidently on account of the cost. It was indicated that there is an unwillingness to pay further expenses for the work of the Krassin.

A radiogram from the Krassin quoted F. Behounek, one of the Nobile survivors, as saying he saw neither flames nor smoke when the Italia's envelope was carried away in a gale one May 25. He believes there is a possibility that the six men carried away with the gas bag may still be alive.

Gen. Nobile was quoted after his rescue from the ice as saying that he saw smoke and flames and believed the envelope was on fire when it disappeared over the horizon.

PRESIDENT WILL ENTER CAMPAIGN AND AID HOOVER

Stanford University in Palo Alto, California. They will be stressed, too, by party spokesmen all over the country and a great army of Republican orators who will invade every hamlet and town once the campaign gets under way.

Coolidge to Speak

The President himself will take an active part in the campaign, making at least two political speeches in the heat of the campaign. He was said to have given this assurance personally to Hoover. One of the President's addresses will be delivered in Boston, it was reliably reported, while another probably will be made in New York City.

The Republican nominee and Mrs. Hoover were the house guests of the President and Mrs. Coolidge at the summer White House since yesterday morning. The Hoovers will leave tonight to resume their westward journey to Palo Alto. The nominee will rejoin his train at Duluth, motoring there from the presidential lodge.

Hoover won himself a brief vacation by visiting the President, as Mr. Coolidge took the nominee fishing. They spent yesterday afternoon angling in the quiet waters of the Brule, a rural stream that encircles the presidential lodge.

Enjoys Fishing

A formal announcement by Everett Sanders, secretary to the President, declared Hoover and Coolidge had each caught eight fish. Sanders, however, indicated that he had not counted eithers' catch. At first he told newspapermen the two noted Republican anglers had caught "sixteen or seventeen fish, equally divided". When a wag asked him whether each had caught "eight and a half fish", Sanders reduced the total to 16. It was whispered around, though, that Hoover had proved a better fisherman than the President, having had much more experience.

The Republican nominee was well pleased with his visit to the President. The 1,000-mile detour from his transcontinental trip allowed him to visit Wisconsin, a state which has been classed by some of the advisers as "doubtful", due to the prohibition issue. In Washington the Republican nominee was told that Governor Alfred E. Smith, his rival, would carry the state on the anti-prohibition issue unless heroic measures were taken to hold it in line. Governor Fred R. Zimmerman and Walter J. Kohler, a Hoover leader, however, declared the state will go Republican by its usual majorities.

the goal. In the county there are some 19,000 motorists. Will they all join the club? When one considers the services which they will receive for their money, it is hard to see why they should not join the organization.

It is the way of a man with a maid. Monday evening, outside a hot dog stand, Pa Newc heard one youth, on stopping his car, ask the girl friend if she had her pocketbook with her. Which can be added to the collection of Leap Year jokes.

These hot afternoons do you remember the old barber shop water cooler of a decade ago? The cooler was filled to the brim with ice. No water was put into it. What you drank was the drippings from the ice. And do you remember how it came out of the tap, "smoking cold"? Truly, one felt almost like pouring a few drops on the floor as a libation before the glass was attacked. But then, the liquid was too precious.

Former Italian Premier Is Dead

Giovanni Giolitti, Five Times Premier Of Italy, Dies Of Illness

(International News Service)

ROME, July 17.—Messages of condolence from all parts of the world today poured into the city of Cavour, where Giovanni Ciolitti, five times premier of Italy, succumbed to uremic poisoning early this morning.

The famous statesman who was known as the "old fox" of Italian politics, was 85 years old. At his bedside at the time of his death were his daughter Mary, his son-in-law and his family physician, Dr. Chiaraviglio.

For 40 years, until eclipsed by the advent of Mussolini, Giolitti was always in the foreground of Italian politics.

The measure of a man is the amount of money required to make him begin talking about the "common people".

MOSCOW, July 17.—"Go on, go on, my life will be the price paid for saving the lives of the others."

These were the last words of Prof. Finn Malmgren, uttered from his grave upon an ice-floe which he had crawled into after urging his companions, Captains Mariano and Zappi, to continue onward and bring aid to General Nobile and the other survivors of the Italian tragedy, Zappi radioed from the Krassin.

After taking Malmgren's food and compass, Zappi said he proceeded onward about a hundred feet. Then looking back he saw the head of the courageous scientist lifted above his icy, self-selected grave. Torn by conflicting emotions, Zappi turned back but was met by Malmgren's last cry to "go on".

torneys Robert K. Aiken and Roy W. Hazen and J. C. Miner, secretary-treasurer of the Home Trust Company. The testimony of the petitioners was finished on Monday afternoon and the defense immediately opened its case. With the testimony of the three men named, Attorney Braham contended that a substantial issue had been raised as to whether or not this was the will of Nellie M. Dean, and that the issue should be awarded to the court of common pleas.

The case has been heard by Judge James A. Chambers, acting as a chancellor in orphans court. It now becomes a common pleas case and will be tried by a jury, and the case will be listed for trial in October of this year.

Monday Afternoon.

Testimony for the defense started Monday afternoon, July 16, in the contested will case of the late Nellie M. Dean which has been before Judge James A. Chambers for over a week. At two-thirty, Attorney C. H. Akens announced that he was through presenting testimony and the defense immediately took up the work of presenting its side of the argument.

Attorney Robert K. Aiken, one of the four attorneys for the defense, who was counsel for the late J. J. Dean and also the late Nellie M. Dean, was the first witness called. He testified that he had known the late J. J. Dean many years prior to his death, that he had served in city council with him, and that they had been friends for a long time. Mr. Aiken testified that he had served Mr. Dean as his counsel.

Died Intestate.

J. J. Dean died intestate, according to the testimony, and his widow, Nellie M. Dean took one-half of the personal property consisting of stock in the J. J. Dean Grocery Company, mortgages, bonds, money in the bank and also a half interest in the real estate which consisted of the Dean Block on Croton avenue, a dwelling on Lincoln avenue, two dwellings on Grove street, an apartment house, some lots in South New Castle and some in the Seventh Ward.

Mr. Aiken testified to having done some work for Mrs. Dean after the death of her husband, and that this work consisted of representing her in many business transactions. He was informed of her death some hours after it occurred and about nine o'clock of that morning went to the former home of Mrs. Dean. Here he was given a black bag which contained among other things, a will. This will he read to the heirs on the day of the funeral, and later probated it. It is this will which is in dispute in the present case. Before probating it he said that he had taken the judgment of Attorney Roy W. Hazen and Treasurer J. C. Miner of the Home Trust as to its validity, both men being acquainted with the hand writing of the late Mrs. Dean.

Attorney Roy W. Hazen was called and said that he had represented the late J. J. Dean in a number of real estate deals and had also represented Mrs. Dean a number of times. He testified to being familiar with her hand writing and said that in his opinion the will was genuine.

Chinese Indifferent To Big War Films

CANTON, July 17.—Thinking to arouse a martial spirit and boost the recruiting for the nationalist campaign against Peking, the Canton government several months ago asked the movie theaters to show more war pictures.

"The Big Parade" and "What Price Glory" were exhibited to packed houses, but while the nationalist forces meantime gained the northern capital, recruiting results from the idea proved disappointing. Glimpses of what modern war can be like furnished no prod to patriotism among a people naturally averse to fighting.

Chinese armies are almost entirely recruited from coolies who join up for food or loot or are caught and conscripted against their wills. Youths from families of standing or wealth simply are not interested in army life. The Chinese have a widely current proverb which translated runs: "Good iron is not used for nails: good men are not used for soldiers.

NATIONAL HONORS FOR CARRANZA'S FUNERAL

THE state funeral for Captain Emilio Carranza, Mexico's premier aviator, is a fitting compliment both to the brave young man who met death while flying through a storm over New Jersey and to the republic which is our neighbor to the south.

The arrangements indicate that the national honors to be accorded will be of first rank. A military escort and representatives of the government of the United States will accompany the funeral train, not only to the border at Laredo, but through to Mexico City, where they will attend the obsequies.

Carranza deserved this impressive tribute. He was a born adventurer and a fighting man—a glance at his features gave assurance of that. Quiet and modest, he was consumed by the ambition to advance the achievement and prestige of Mexico in the air; and his record indicated a notable success. He had aroused an immense interest in aviation among his people—and that probably will be listed as his greatest achievement. They called him the Lindbergh of Mexico, an unconscious compliment to our own air hero.

MANHOOD

WHEN you refer to an attorney-at-law you don't mean an ambulance-chasing shyster; when you speak of a doctor of medicine you don't mean a quack; when you refer to a minister of the gospel you don't mean a hypocrite using the church as a cloak; and when you speak of a man you don't mean some cowardly member of a wolf pack gang, any more than you would think of a nag when speaking of a horse.

When thinking of a man, your mind doesn't picture some derelict following the lines of the least resistance, but rather a red-blooded, sound-thinking, progressive human being. When you say man, you think of some up-and-doing living person who is honestly shaping his destiny alone, and not some whining, leaning puppet endeavoring to corral enough other whining puppets to make an augmented chorus. The words man, manly, manhood and man power all have too true a ring to be in any way mistaken.

In civilized life men become leaders through ability and courage—ability to think and courage to do. A real man seeking advancement doesn't call upon some gang to push him along, but strives to do that which he is doing so well that he attracts attention to his ability. His thoughts are always to build and never to tear down. He is striving to do that which may have been done only to do it better, and his confidence in himself is a magnetic power that attracts others to him.

When you refer to a successful concern, what do you really mean? A successful organization, and a successful organization is one that is made up of real men who are not afraid to think and work.

Sometimes when a sink orator is growling about everybody from the general manager down, just ask yourself the question, "How long would the business continue, meet its pay roll and employ you if the sewer orator were running the business?" A farmer must know his soil to get the most out of it, and a man must know his business to remain in it. If some men were given a farm, they would starve on it, and if some men were given a business, they would financially die with it. When men realize that a gang anchors them instead of propelling them, then they will rely upon individualism for their advancing power.

The real boy at circus time carries water for the elephants and sees the circus. The gang tries to steal in under the tent. The real boy becomes a real man, and what this country needs most is real manhood.

CALIFORNIA COMES HERE TO LEARN

CALIFORNIA has lately appointed an advisory committee on game refuges and shooting grounds. A member has been in Pennsylvania to investigate our method of management and propagation. The Pacific state is taking a lively interest in animal conservation and expects to raise $900,000 for game refuges surrounded by hunting grounds. The commission may pay as high as $75 an acre for such land. Hunters' license fees have been doubled from $1 to $2 to provide the necessary money.

In Pennsylvania the last legislature increased hunters' license fees from $1.25 to $2 under the Quigley bill in the hope of financing the purchase of 100,000 acres of wild land available for hunting and reforesting. Here the state limits the expenditure to $10 an acre, and our present reserves have been acquired at an average of less than $3 an acre.

Pennsylvania ranks second in the union, New York being the leader, in the issuance of hunters' licenses. For that reason, and because of the work done here in forest and wild life conservation, California came to seek instruction. But if she chooses to be impressed she might also get a lesson in buying real estate at a low figure.

Hints and Dints

No champion prize fighter ever gets knocked out so badly that he cannot take care of the purse he gets for allowing himself to be swiped.

An Arctic expedition now contemplated will have as one of it's features a self rescuing unit if such becomes necessary. While they are at it they had better take several of that kind of units along. Our idea of something that means nothing is flying over the north pole—also the south pole.

On Friday the 13th last we learn eleven persons met their deaths by airships. They might have been killed had it not been the 13th also. People who want to get killed by airplanes do not have to wait for any particular fatal day for that purpose.

There have been a great many wet and dry political fights in the past ten years, but the wet and dry fight of all time and the grandpap of them all is the coming presidential campaign. The issue will be squarely up to the people as it never has been before, and one of the candidates also has a handicap. When it is all over we hope the end of harmful political controversy will be over. Just because a man is wet or dry really does not make him a good office holder. We have seen both wets and drys running for office that really should have been in jail for the general good of the community.

It looks as if there are entirely too many school teachers in this country now. There are not jobs enough for all. This means that some school teachers will have to hunt some other kind of a job, get married or something. In some places married school teachers cannot get a job either.

When you join the New Castle Motor Club you are doing yourself a favor. The benefits are greater than in anything else you can join. The Hints and Dints man is taking memberships and will be glad to have you sign up at The News office. A large membership is asked on account of the pioneer road and auto club man the late David Jameson, who worked so hard while living in this city for good roads in Pennsylvania and that is one reason why Lawrence county stands third in improved highways in the state.

There are thirty-three public school janitors in this city now. It hasn't been so long that there were only two or three and away back when we went to school they didn't have any. We are getting more janitors anyhow.

The Smiths at Belfast, Ireland held a convention last week and passed resolutions congratulating Gov. Al Smith of New York on being nominated for president of the United States. We have an idea that all the Smiths in the whole world will be for the governor and that will be quite a few millions, even if many of them are in foreign countries.

One reason golf is expensive is because the custom of dressing in a public locker room necessitates the discard of holey socks and raged undies.

Two elders in a church at Hammond, Ind., were sentenced to 180 days in jail for giving another elder in the same church a terrific beating. There still seems to be cases where there is a difference of opinion in the same church.

A West Virginia judge blames the home for young criminals. We believe he is right. The home is where the boys and girls should get a lot of the training they should have to make them good citizens, at least respectable enough to keep them out of jail. A child that is taught meanness seems able to keep it and by the same token if a child is taught decency it will be able to hold onto at least some of it.

A boy at Bristol, Pa., admitted setting fire to a theatre six times just to see the fire engines run. Now if he had set fire to it because of bum shows in it he might be getting a bit of sympathy now.

The telephone rang in our house at three thirty in the morning. The phone is located near our winter bed and we were occupying the summer bed which was some distance from the winter bed. Our phone number is 73 and while traversing the space between the bed and the phone we thought perhaps some one wanted Dr. Wilson, the Pennsylvania yard office or the Shenango Valley hospital. Generally it is one of those places wanted when the phone rings late at night or early morning. What was our surprise when we lifted the receiver off the hook to hear the voice of Jake Rentz in San Diego, Cal. While it was three thirty in New Castle, considering the daylight saving time, it was only 11:30 in that place. We had a nice talk with Jake and Richard got on the line and Mrs. Jake also talked to Mrs. Fred but little Freddie was fast asleep and did not get to talk. It sure was a treat to hear the voice three thousand miles away. We answered as long as Jake talked because he put in the call and was paying for it.

They say you can judge a man's character by the way he sounds his auto horn. That's the only way the family can judge daughter's boy friend.

There are people who really speak three languages but they think they only speak one. English and profane, are generally the ones they speak and they speak profane more correctly than they do the English.

A farmer at Ridgway, Pa., while working on his farm, found a plank that was over a hundred years old. It was a bit moldy but otherwise all right. It must have been one of those political planks that are only used at nomination times and will stand a lot of wear along that line.

The new chairman of the Democratic National committee says he never voted at a Republican or Democratic primary, but has always been independent and voted for his choice at the general fall election. Well, he was mighty decent in that respect. He did not enter into a primary election and then bolt the ticket at the general election as so many partriots do. Those who do not want to stand by the decision of the majority at the primaries are doing the decent thing when they stay away and vote the way they want to and for whom they want to at the general election.

Every now and then in some court a couple of wild-eyed lawyers will go after one another and tell each other what thay so well know they each are. Some people seem to enjoy such a spectacle but others view it with utter disgust.

When one goes to a market to buy cherries or any kind of berries these days and it happens to be one who has been familiar with the prices of such things for many years, he wonders what more relief either those who raise them or sell them want.

This is from Fred Rentz's department in his New Castle News: "We have never thought it time wasted to look at blooming roses in our garden, or in fact any kind of flowers that may happen to be in bloom there." Loving flowers as he does it was just like Fred to write in that vein. And he pleaded guilty in his column on last Thursday to having put in the 'Glorious Fourth" working in his garden, seemingly taking great pride in the statement. In the same issue he pooh-hoed the grafting of his tomato and potato plan and someone had suggested to increase their output. He says with his limited garden space that he is satisfied with things as they are and has no desire to attempt to improve on Nature. Which shows that Fred does sure "know his onions."—From "Jim" Borland's column in Franklin News-Herald.

TODAYS STORYETTE.

There was only one telephone booth in the store and the tall and aggressive person waiting to call became impatient at the unconscionably long time taken in the booth by the meek little chap with side whiskers.

"See here" shouted the tall person thrusting his head into the booth and addressing the occupant thereof: "You've had that 'phone 20 minutes and haven't said a word!"

"Sh, sh!" returned the meek one, "I'm talking to my wife."

Plans are being made by a committee of state officials in Harrisburg for a new governor's mansion. No man who wants to be governor will hesitate about running just because we have the one there now.

Smallpox broke up a revival meeting in Harrisburg and the whole revival bunch was put into quarantine for 18 days. Smallpox still causes a stampede most any place and those who do not believe in vaccination also feel like running away from it.

In New Jersey a speed limit of 40 miles an hour has been established on the highways. That is not fast enough yet, as on the White Horse Pike between Philadelphia and Atlantic City all the cars that can, go about 60 miles an hour. It wouldn't be safe for a white or any other kind of a horse to be on it a minute, day or night.

We hear a lot about double and triple dahlias but so far we do not have even a single dahlia on our place.

THE MAN WITH ONE VIRTUE.

It has been said that every man with one hobby is a bore. It isn't true—quite. But I think it is true that every man with one virtue is a pest.

For the love of thy fellow men have at least two virtues.

Two virtues will mate and produce off-spring. One virtue sits alone on its west bough and croaks—like the raven.

In some forgotten book of letters, printed back in Colonial days the correspondent tells of a certain strumpet he once met in his travels, old in sin but inordinately proud of the fact that she had never taken snuff—and noisily contemptuous of those of her sex who had.

Play your baccarat if you will but I reach to the rear for a pinch of fine-cut, control your eyebrows.

There was once a good housewife in Holland who was unduly arrogant in the matter of clean floors.

One day she scrubbed through the floor, fell into the cellar and broke her neck.

She probably went to heaven but it's a matter of record that few attended the funeral to see her off.

Mrs. Knocker beamed patronizingly on Mandy, the new cook.

"I'm going to get you another chair for the kitchen, Mandy," she said.

"But, mam, I'se goin' need no moh chair," said Mandy.

"But, you have company some evenings, don't you?"

"Yessum, yessum," sputtered Mandy, "but all ob dem is gentlemums!"

Every time a child is killed by accident in Toledo, O., the citizens on the streets of that community have the lamentable fact brought to their attention by the display of a mourning draped flag flung from the windows of the Toledo Safety council. This striking method of emphasizing the importance of public safety, and particularly the need for greater efforts in protecting the children, was recently adopted by the council.

The Automobile Enter Politics.
Some Real Superstition.
To Establish Safe Flying.
Looking From The Sky.

By ARTHUR G. BRISBANE
(Copyright, 1928, by N. Y. American, Inc.)

The automobile industry finds itself in politics. Mr. Raskob, finance head of the four billion dollar General Motors concern, a Democratic national chairman. Henry Ford is vice president of the engineers' committee organized to work for Hoover.

Raskob says he is out to help Governor Smith "free the country from the curse of prohibition". Ford says he believes that Hoover will build up the nation and start enterprises that will give well-paid work to armies of men. Why not organize a Ford-Raskob debating tour through the nation? It would draw.

Prof. Nicholas Roerich, traveling in Thibet, discovers, with apparent surprise, much superstition. What did he expect in a miserable country overrun with lamas, studded with so-called Buddhist convents and monasteries, where tens of thousands live on the superstitions of others?

Buddha says you must not kill animals. Animals not wanted are driven to the edge of a hill, forced to fall over and kill themselves.

Corpses are cut in pieces, thrown to the pigs and birds in open fields. The living roll on the dismembered dead "for good luck".

Lamas count their profits instead of saying their prayers on their beads, says Prof. Roerich. They use human bones and squeaky conjurations to impress the superstitious natives.

Lamas drive away evil spirits with guns, for cash; tell your fortune with haunches of mutton, also for cash; you supply the mutton.

In short, they really are superstitious. Chinese and Japanese will take them over by and by, if they are worth taking.

While stunt flying, ocean and Arctic flying take their toll of life, careful, well planned flying establishes itself as part of the human program.

The 21 planes in the Edsel Ford flight reached San Francisco on Saturday, planes of all makes and styles, finishing the first leg in a flight of 6,300 miles to 32 cities and 15 states.

Edsel Ford's first prize will go to the plane carrying the greatest pay load, per horsepower, in the shortest time. This national air tour, emphasizing safety and efficiency, is a most constructive aviation enterprise.

The venerable Cardinal Lucon of Rheims, 86 years old, flew over his cathedral and told friends how beautiful the noble building looked from the sky.

"I should not have risked it 20 years ago," said he. "It might not have seemed dignified. Everything is different now; one must keep up with the times."

What do our spirits see, leaving our bodies? Do they look down on sleeping cities at night, busy farms by day? Do they see the other planets and suns and the outside universes, 100,000,000 light years away, on their journey through space? Or do they awake instantly in heaven? Too bad if they have to miss all the things on the way.

Ninety political scientists, gathered at Des Moines, say the two-party system of governing this country will vanish after this election. A system of smaller parties, based on religious beliefs, economic theories, views on prohibition, labor, etc., will replace the elephant and the donkey.

It is hard enough for the average voter to keep track of two parties. At best his notion as to why he belongs to one or the other is vague. He would worry himself sick with a dozen parties to think about.

Turkish Mohammedanism talks of changing its Sabbath from Friday to Sunday, for business reasons, and wants music in mosques.

The latter idea would promote peace in India, where Mohemmedans often kill Hindus marching past mosques with music playing.

Interesting to see how many different reasons impel various sects to murder each other, and all to please the Creator.

Twenty-two thousand acres of wheat are damaged by field mice in South Dakota, the mice working over a tract many miles wide. Poisons probably will check the plague. On a previous occasion, in another state, sea gulls, mysteriously informed, flew far inland and cleared out the mice.

A great danger is the frightful fertility among insects and small mammals, mice, rats, rabbits, etc., and a marvel calling for unlimited gratitude is nature's power to keep the balance. Any one of 10,000 insects breeding unchecked would have human life on this planet impossible.

ANTICIPATION IS ENJOYABLE.

Habits are hard to break, even though it may be profitable to break them. A department store advertised that Christmas purchases made in November woud not be payable until January, although they also stated that the usual December invoice would be mailed. Sales were increased by thousands of dollars and collections in December were normal. Most people hate to have unpaid bills lying around and they pay them even though they are not due.

THE WAY SHE USED ME.

She used to let me see her home,
She used to make dates over the 'phone.
She used to let me hold her hand,
She used to treat me something grand.
She used to let me steal a kiss,
She used to fill my heart with bliss.
She used to like me—it was I
She used to bait the other guy.

Dr. Crane's Editorial

THE EMPTY NORTH

One of the most striking passages of that ancient collection of literature known as the Bible, is "He hangeth the north over an empty place." It is found in the Book of Job.

The queer part of it is that astronomically the north is a somewhat empty place. In a measure you can see for yourself that there are not many stars in that direction.

All this is called to mind when we read of General Nobile's flight over the Pole a short time ago. He discovered again what had already been discovered, that when you get to the North Pole you find nothing there—just frozen emptiness.

Think of all these years that men have dreamed of getting to the North Pole, and striven for it, and died for it. What does it amount to, after all?

It is simply a record to make, a sort of impossible line to toe, but all those fanciful dreams of Simms, Hole, and the like, about there being an undiscovered country up there, are pure fiction.

The only part of this globe that is habitable is the temperate zone, and in a measure the tropics.

The time will probably come in the future when the route across the North Pole will be found the most direct and the shortest for aircraft from Europe to America, but it is doubtful whether the polar regions can ever be made suitable for human habitation.

The first requisite for life of any kind, as we understand it, is heat, and in the polar regions it takes too much effort just to keep warm, although there seem to be plenty of fish in the way of diet.

General Nobile's discoveries, as well as those of others, reveal that the north is to be added to the oceans and the deserts and the mountain rages as pure waste. A deal of the universe, as far as we can see, is waste in the sense of not being habitable by man. We cannot live in the seas, and life is difficult in the high mountain ranges.

Considering how vast is the universe, and how many of the stars are simply blazing balls of fire utterly uninhabitable by any form of life, and how gigantic are the distances between the stellar bodies, and even what a great portion of this planet is not habitable, one's philosophy of life unconsciously limits the importance of mankind, and adds a new meaning to the exclamation:

"When I consider Thy heavens, the moon and the stars which Thou hast ordained, what is man that Thou art mindful of him, and the son of man that Thou visitest him?"

The World AND THE Mud Puddles

THERE WAS MONEY IN IT.

There is a "Movie" which has to do with the sale of an old horse car line in New York. Those who have seen it will recall how the hero drove the car rather rapidly about town one day without regard to whose tracks he used. There is another horse car story which the writer of the scenario for the "Movie" overlooked.

Several years ago, a horse-drawn car was operated on Fourteenth Street in New York, a few hours every day, in order that the traction company might retain its charter. The superintendent suspected the operator of knocking down fares, fired him and hired a new man, admonishing the new man to bring in plenty of fares if he wanted to hold his job.

At the end of the first week, the new man brought in $30, the following week $32.50, the next week $35 and the next week $40. The superintendent was well pleased, and called him to his office and asked how he did it.

"Well, you see, it is a secret," the driver replied. "After dark, before the lights are turned on, I turn the switch and go over to Broadway. That's where you get the business."

THE "TALKIES"

How is your voice? Are you able to manage it? Not much chance in Hollywood for you without a good voice. The "talkies" or talking movies have upset the situation in the movie colonies. Acting used to be enough to get by in the movies. Now good acting and good voice control are required.

THE 400,000

If there were 400,000 marbles in a barrel how much would you bet that you could pick out the lucky one in a single reach? You chance would be only one in 400,000. Three hundred and ninety-nine thousand and nine hundred and ninety-nine chances would be against you. And yet, in a gigantic lottery which was taking the pennies of school children the chance to win was only one in 400,000. What folly to gamble!

TRADITION RULES

In college and university education tradition too often is the dominant element. The fact that colleges generally are kept remote from business areas is due to the asceticism of the scholars of the Middle Ages who were tired of the world and wanted to get away from it. The college should be located where it is most efficient. Possibly a broad campus is the best site. But don't be too sure.

ANOTHER CUSTOM

In Holland it is out of the question for a man to appear in public without his coat on. It is contrary to custom. Imagine the surprise of the Hollander who arrives in this country in the middle of the summer and see thousands coatless! Of course, he, too, will soon conform with the group and put comfort first.

DOLLAR FRIENDSHIP

"Without the friendship of newspaper editors I don't think that any business can succeed." Probably the man who said this has the correct view, but how can the man who abuses a friendship retain his self-respect? Wouldn't you rather do without luxuries than "sponge" them off someone who has confidence in your integrity?

ON BEING ORDINARY.

You read so much in the papers about extraordinary folk, that sometimes you may wilt a little under the impression that you are just an ordinary person and in no wise notable.

I hope that this consciousness does not make you sad. There seems to be a certain glamor about being notable and eminent, but there certainly are compensations attached to the state of being ordinary. The ordinary American makes a pretty good living has family contacts that are steady and comforting, and is endowed with enough brains and enterprise to carry on his own existence without too much friction.

Now the extraordinary fellow is often just an ordinary man who has certain "breaks" that put him in a conspicuous place on the ladder. He is quite a mark and there are many out with their popguns shooting at him. His ordinary mind is dizzy with the experience and it's not so easy for him to get a reasonable amount of sleep as it was before he took the climb.

The ordinary man who has been placed by fortune in a conspicuous place is a worried individual. Maybe he struck oil as an ordinary man sometimes does. Maybe he bought heavily of Radio or some other "good thing" when it was down and sold out when it was high. Now, these breaks do not generally result from the exercise of brains or judgment. And they do not impose upon the lucky fellow the responsibiliay of being quite rich. Often there are other responsibilities. Somebody thinks that beause this young man has made a lot of money and looks serious about it he ought to be made a cabinet member, a senator, or a diplomat. Well can you imagine the plight of that ordinary man?

Then there is the genuinely extraordinary mind. He probably has a great imagination and a keen sensibility. He is delicately organized, psychologically and spiritually and probably physically also. This roughly organized world hurts him. He suffers from fears and fancied slights. He thinks people do not like him or he worries lest he be misunderstood. He is like a man without any epidermis trying to work in a flour mill. Everything hurts him because his environment was made by and for ordinary folk.

Nietzsche was a man of giant intellect but the world he lived in hurt him so he fled to a lonely place to escape human contacts. Beethoven suffered spiritual torment all his life because he could find no place in the ordinary world where he could feel at home. Poe was a constant mourner and Byron's life was tragedy. Lamb and Goldstmith lived in misery because they could not talk the language of their time and place.

Oh there is much to be thankful for if one is thoroughly ordinary. For this is an ordinary man's world.

Grant Street Boy Missing From Home

Richard Miller, aged 16, son of Mrs. H. A. Miller of 424 West Grant street, has not yet returned to his home, from where he disappeared Sunday morning, according to the police authorities.

The case was reported to the police Monday afternoon by the boy's mother. This is the first time that he has been gone from home.

At the time of his disappearance, the youth, who is five feet two inches tall and weights 130 pounds, wore a dark grey suit with a light stripe, had on tan shoes, and wore no cap or hat. He also wore a light blue shirt and an orange and black necktie.

Richard Miller has brown hair, which he combs straight back over his head, and is light complexioned. His nose is freckled and there are more freckles under his eyes. If he is located, persons should call 732-R or get in touch with the New Castle police station.

Worldwide Effort To Grapple With Cancer Started In London Today

(International News Service)

LONDON, July 17.—What is regarded as the greatest world-wide effort ever made to grapple with the dreaded scourge of cancer is under way here today with delegates present from many foreign countries, including the United States.

The international conference was convened under the auspices of the British empire cancer campaign. It was made possible largely through the generosity of Sir Richard Carton, honorary secretary of the British campaign, who is bearing the entire cost of bringing to London the bulk of the foreign delegates.

Three hundred cancer specialists from all parts of the world are attending. Of this number about 35 came from the United States. The American delegation includes Dr. L. Hoffmann, noted statistician; Dr. Burton T. Simpson of the New York hospital for malignant diseases; Dr. James B. Murphy of the Rockefeller institute for medical research, Dr. George A. Soper of the American society for control of cancer and professors from a number of medical schools.

The foreign delegates were received in audience by King George at Buckingham palace yesterday.

"We are hopeful this conference will give the greatest impetus that the world has ever known in searching out the cause and cure of cancer," Capt. E. J. C. Chapman, the organizing secretary, told International News Service. Every aspect of cancer will be discussed — athological, diagnostic, medical, surgical, X-ray, occupational, public health and racial.

Just Folks

By EDGAR A. GUEST

THE PHEASANT

The pheasant is a handsome bird,
with dignity and grace
He struts about my patch of lawn as though he owned the place.
His raiment is a thing of joy, from tip of tail to head
The brightest colors nature knows on him are richly spread.
I know why monarchs thing that bird
the choicest of the choice.
But oft I wonder how and where the pheasant got his voice.

When first one came to visit us and
strut about my grounds,
I did not then suspect the source of all those rasping sounds.
I called the children out to see this bird of plumage rare
And gleefully we stood and watched his regal manners there.
I boasted of him to my friends, and showed him off to them,
But that was in the days before he came at 4 a. m.

Disturbed at dawn by sounds which seemed a cry of cruel pain,
Or burglars rasping with a file an entrance to attain,
I flung the window curtain up and there upon the grass
I saw my proud he-pheasant and his flock of women pass.
And learned to my astonishment that sleep-disturbing cry
Is what a pheasant utters when the other sex is nigh.

Now comes the pheasant to my place
and struts my lawn in pride,
But should he never call again I should be satisfied.
Though handsome is that bird to see,
I dread the coming dawn
When he will bring his family to roam
about my lawn.
It does not soothe me back to sleep,
nor make my soul rejoice

Office Abuse In Southern States Will Be Probed

Plan Wide-Spread Investigation Into Alleged Sale Of Federal Offices

(International News Service)

WASHINGTON, July 17.—The indictment of Perry W. Howard, Republican national committeeman from Mississippi, will be followed by a widespread investigation of alleged sale of federal offices in the South, it was learned at the Department of Justice today.

The new inquiry is expected to be directed toward alleged abuses in the disposition of offices outside of post office appointments.

Department of Justice agents, it is understood, already have been sent into several southern states with instructions to go thoroughly into stories of graft in connection with recommendations for presidential appointments.

Meantime Howard was given an "indefinite leave" from his duties as special assistant attorney general. He is awaiting formal notification of the indictment returned against him at Biloxi, Miss., yesterday, alleging that he and others received $1,500 in a deal for appointment of a member of the United States marshal's force.

The Brookhart sub-committee, which recently held hearings in Atlanta, Ga., discovered that many of the abuses in the South were in offices not protected by civil service rules of the post office, members said.

The Iowa senator is said to have recommended that particular attention be paid to appointment of U. S. marshals and deputies.

Summer School Ends On Friday

Enrollment Of This Year 200 Larger Than During Preceding Year

More than a thousand pupils from different schools in the city will finish the summer course offered at the Ben Franklin Junior high school on Friday, according to the statement of Superintendent Dr. C. C. Green.

This year's summer school enrollment has an additional two hundred pupils over the enrollment of last year. The teachers in the summer session have been under the supervision of Principal James H. Hughes.

The average person's belief, says Dr. Green, is that those children in summer school are what is known as the flunkers. This belief is false as a very small percentage of the pupils flunked out in the regular school term. Practically all of them are attending to finish school in a shorter period of time or to improve their time while they have nothing else to do.

Pupils from the country districts have also taken advantage of the summer school opportunities here and pay the regular tuition to attend during the summer weeks.

PETER'S ADVENTURES IN ANIMAL LAND

BY MRS. FLORENCE SMITH VINCENT

BIRD THAT WOULD BE HOMELY

"Toco Toucan cocked his head on one side and looked at husband and me.

"'I'll bet a berry you have never seen a foot like mine,' said Toco, and he stretched one of his feet out so that we could get a good view of it. His foot certainly wasn't a bit like ours. It had two toes that pointed towards the front and two that pointed towards the back.

"'How do you know in which direction to go?' asked I, and the fellow winked at me good naturedly.

"'It doesn't make any difference to me,' said he, 'I make up my mind where I want to go and then I start. Up the tree or down, it is all the same.'

"'That is exactly the way old Woodpecker gets about,' said I. 'The rest of the birds fly from branch to branch but Woodpecker just walks up and down the trunk and goes as fast as lightning, too.'

"'Hm! That is not what I do at all,' remarked Toco, rather crossly. 'Who said I walked up and down the trunk? I don't—that is, not often. I jump from branch to branch and I never miss my hold, either, let me tell you! There are lots of folks here in the jungle that it is wise to keep away from, but there is no one who can bother me when I am as high in the air as I am this minute. But tell me, little birds of the north, don't you think I am the ugliest bird you have ever seen?'

"Bob didn't say a word—he told me afterward that he was afraid of what would happen to him if he told the truth. Maybe Toco would bite off his head. But the fellow seemed to be in such good humor that I said just what I thought.

"'You certainly are as ugly as can be, Toco. Your beak is really a frightful thing to look at. I believe I have only seen one other bird as homely as you are.'

"'Who was that?' asked Toco quickly.

"'The great horned owl that lives in the woods near our nest,' said I, and at my words Toco screamed with rage.

"'An owl! Ooh! How I would like to get at him. Let him once venture within that circle down here and he would not know where he was. My relatives would tear his feathers out. You are right, an owl is the one bird that we Toco Toucans think is more ugly than ourselves and so we hate him. We wish to be the ugliest. An owl, indeed. A parrot is bad enough, but an owl. Just to think of him makes my pin feathers rise for rage!'"

Your Fur Coat is in Danger right now—

THIS is the time of the year when the destructive moth larvae get in their deadliest work.

A few weeks ago we were talking about "below zero" weather. In another week we'll be talking "in the shade." It's at this changing season of the year that moth larvae are most active. Your fur coat, but lately discarded and holding the dust and grime of a season's wear, is a tempting banquet for these ever-present pests.

Don't delay a moment! Get your fur coat in safe storage NOW.

Almost any day now you'll be going on vacation. It will be worth a lot in peace of mind to know that your furs are safe from burglars and fire.

BE FOREWARNED!

Put your fur coat beyond their reach. Have it covered by insurance. Entrust it now to Mayberry's—to people who make a business of "keeping things new" and have the experience and training to warrant your confidence.

Fewer Women Auto Drivers Violate Traffic Laws Here Than Men Says Sergeant

Although they are made the butt of many jokes by wits and wags, yet Sergeant J. P. Steiner of the New Castle police force beleives that women automobile drivers are sadly misrepresented. Not only does Sergeant Steiner believe this, but to this reporter he offered statistics to prove his statements.

On going over the police blotter for 1928, Sergeant Steiner finds that only about 20 per cent of all automobile drivers who are arrested for violating traffic rules or who make reports of accidents are women. And when one takes into consideration how many women are driving cars at the present time, these figures are astounding. For in every home—almost—to which a car is attached, one or more women drive it.

All of which means that only one woman steps up to the sergeant's desk and lays down her fine to every five men.

"Well," Sergeant Steiner replied when he was asked for what violations women were given tickets, "the usual offense is parking too near an intersection or leaving their car too long in one place.

"You know how it is. A woman parks her car and goes into the stores to buy something. And when she gets in the stores, usually she loses all sense of time. She stays and stays, and when she comes out she finds a ticket on her steering wheel.

"Out of town women when they violate the traffic rules, are usually given a little book containing the rules by the officer so that they will not repeat the offense.

"Most women observe stop signs much better than do male drivers. And they are also more careful when on streets with traffic lights. I know that since the lights were put up on Mahoning and Madison avenues there have been only one or two women given tickets for going through them."

Device Will Aid Sub Crew Rescues

Mercer Man Will Give Idea To U. S. Navy For Submarine Boats

MERCER, Pa., July 17.—A device that will permit of rescue of imprisoned submarine boat crews either from the outside by divers or through operation of the mechanics of the device by the under-sea boat crew themselves has just been completed by D. B Robins of Fredonia.

Robins, who is a well known hardware merchant of this nearby county town, has notified Congressman T. C. Cochran of his desire to present his device free to the United States navy.

Just a few months ago Robins completed a device for the succoring of these imprisoned sailors. The completion of this device inspired him to the greater task of making it possible to affect a rescue of the men, he stated today.

White Lights Mourn Rolling Chair Pusher; Dissipated A Fortune

By MADELIN LEOF,
Staff Writer for Central Press and New Castle News.

ATLANTIC CITY, N. J., July 17.—The heaviest man in the United States and possibly in the world, as well as a heavy spender in Philadelphia and New York, C. Emory Titman, is dead at the age of 39 and a weight of 545 pounds. He is being mourned by his friends and cronies in the theatrical and sport fields.

About 15 years ago when Titman weighed only 350 pounds he suddenly and unexpectedly inherited $350,000 from his father Charles E. Titman, president of a manufacturing firm in Philadelphia. Doctors told Titman that he was too stout to live long. They predicted just a short term for him and Titman, loving the bright lights, cafes, hotels, night life and athletics declared solemnly and sincerely that he would blow his quarter million in one big time.

True to his word he did nothing but entertain persons of like tastes It was a familiar sight to see Titman in the dining room of a Philadelphia hotel where he maintained a palatial suite of rooms, dining eight chorus girls. He, himself partook of fabulous amounts of food, ordering six lamb chops, pounds of oysters, two sirloin steaks of large size. His appetite and his good nature were enormous. He had a multitudinous array of chins.

From his rich food he soon climbed the scales to 700 pounds and was known as the heaviest playboy in the world. A lover of sports, he became the millionaire mascot of the Philadelphia Athletics, following the team all over the country. He went to the Athletics training camp every spring and worked out with them. He was a close friend of Connie Mack, John Shibe, Eddie Collins and other well-known baseball men.

The doctors' prediction of early and speedy death did not work out immediately but Titman's fortune was in a hurry to fade out. A few years ago he found himself alive but penniless. He came to Atlantic City to work. He became a masseur in a Turkish bath establishment, then worked as a taxi starter and finally pushed rolling chairs on the boardwalk.

At his death it required eight man to carry him from his apartment to the automobile which took him back to Philadelphia.

THE LATE C. EMORY TITMAN.

File Appeal In Wanamaker Will

(International News Service)

PHILADELPHIA, July 17.—An appeal from the decree admitting the will of the late Rodman Wanamaker to probate here has been filed by the Philadelphia Fidelity Trust Company as trustees of the trust estate created in the will for Wanamaker's children and grandchildren.

The trust company contends that Wanamaker was not legally a resident of Philadelphia and that his home, "Lindenhurst", was located in Cheltenham township, Montgomery county, and that the will should thus be probated in Norristown, county seat of Montgomery county. A hearing on the appeal is to be held July 20. If the petition is granted Register of Wills William F. Campbell of this county will lose about $2,500 in fees.

Alleged Robber Nabbed, $25,000 Loot Recovered

Detective Tom Tunney, Brother Of Gene Tunney, Aids In Capture Of Noted Criminal

(International News Service)

NEW YORK, July 17.—Detective Tom Tunney, who has a brother Gene, went into battle today without benefit of ballyhoo, extended training or the lure of a half million dollar purse. Out of the scuffle, brief but spirited, came the arrest of George Williams, the recovery of $25,000 of broken up jewelry and what Tom Tunney and his sparring partners believe will be the solution of a $50,000 daylight hold-up.

Williams, was captured "on information" in the lobby of the Century hotel. He gave Detectives Tunney, Jerome Butler and Dave Wallace a brisk fight before they got him in hand.

Police believe the loot is part of the $50,000 haul made in the holdup of the Commonwealth Loan association in the Picadilly building, January 15.

Reginald Wendell Called By Death

Son Of Late J. Wendell Of New York Dies Of Meningitis Effects

(International News Service)

LONDON, July 17.—Reginald L. Wendell, son of the late J. Wendell of New York, and brother of the Countess of Carnarvon, died today of meningitis, aged 29.

Death of Reginald D. Wendell recalled the death in 1923 of his famous brother-in-law, Lord Carnarvon, who financed the expedition which discovered the tomb of Tut-Ankh-Amen in the valley of kings, Egypt. Lord Carnarvon's death shortly after the opening of the tomb followed an illness of considerable mystery. Doctors attributed it to infection from a mosquito bite, but many superstitious persons thought it was due to an old curse upon anyone who disturbed the bones of the ancient Pharaoh.

Thaw Arrives In New York

Harry K. Thaw Bitter Toward England Due To His Recent Barring

SAYS ENGLAND IS BEHIND TIMES

(International News Service)

NEW YORK, July 17.—Harry K. Thaw, who favored England with a visit, only to be told a view of the British shore line from a ship was the best the King could do for him, is back in New York with a peeve on at King George and his clerks.

"England is hundreds of years behind the times," was the theme of a statement issued in typewritten form by Thaw as he stepped from the Ile De France today. Later he amended the statement to make it read "a million years."

Barred as an undesirable, according to messages from abroad, because of the Stanford White tragedy and subsequent happenings in his life, Thaw left the British shores and went to France where he was granted ingress without quibbling.

Letters Ignored

"I have been treated with the greatest courtesy in France, Austria and Germany," the statement explains, "but in England they decided against me. They have never been able to overcome their personal feelings. They are a lot of hicks."

Thaw also announced that he wrote to the British home secretary, only to have his favor ignored. He also communicated with Andrew Mellon, American Secretary of the Treasury, but even the Mellon overtures were ignored by the British, he says.

"I don't know what was in their minds," the statement explained. "The English people are not a free people. The same conditions exist in England today as existed in the time of Cromwell."

Put Return Address On Envelopes Is Plea Of Postmaster Crawford

In sounding the dangers of sending envelopes and other parcels through the mail without a return address on them, even though it is local matter, Postmaster Edwin W. Crawford this morning fully outlined the reasons why this practice should be discontinued.

"In the first place," said Mr. Crawford, "money should never be placed in an envelope unless it is registered. The dangers are too great."

"Should a person send a letter to some friend and neglect to place their return address on the left side of the face of the envelope at the top, which is the proper place, and also neglect to sign their name in full at the close of the writing, as many do, the chances are that if the letter was addressed incorrectly, the letter would find its finish at the "dead letter" office in Washington, where all such material goes.

"But suppose that the full name was written at the end of the letter, then the postal officials would be given some information on which to work.

"Nevertheless, persons should always remember to purchase the "office request" envelopes when buying at the post office, for the essential reason that it is much safer. It takes little time to write the return on the face, and the cost is practically the same for these kind as for the plain type. For a package of 1000 No. 5, two-cent stamp kind, without the return blank printed on, the cost is $21.72 while a like number with the return printed on them, costs $21.92, only twenty cents more. The cost for the two in numbers up to 25 is exactly the same.

Mr. Crawford and the local postal authorities hope that the residents of New Castle will get into the habit of using the envelopes with the return address blank printed on them. Or if these are not used, it is desired that the return matter be placed in the proper corner of any envelope, whatever kind is used. "The return address is very important," concluded Mr. Crawford.

The Diary of a New Yorker

by CLARK KINNAIRD

Exclusive Central Press Dispatch to New Castle News

NEW YORK, July 17.—Mr. Ray Woods has gone back to St. Louis having decided that "New York is only a hick town. The mugs in this burg don't know if they're alive, and most of them don't know what the whooping is about."

Mr. Woods, high diver de luxe, jumped off Brooklyn bridge three times within a few days, and got only a few inches of newspaper space. He wasn't welcomed at City Hall and given the key to the city, and he wasn't interviewed by the sob-sisters about his opinions on love, night club conditions, the war debts and the secret of success. In other words, few knew and no one cared about Mr. Woods' unequaled feat.

Years ago the stunt of jumping off Brooklyn bridge was more or less a sensation. Only one out of 10 or more who tried it lived to tell the tale. Steve Brodie became a national character through the stunt, and it is still a matter of controversy among oldsters as to whether he really made the leap.

Woods fondly expected that his leaps would make him famous, and get him into the movies. New York didn't even give him a yawn.

Incidentally, New York is getting weary of entertaining ocean flyers. Amelia Earhart and her boy friends hurried home from England after their trans-Atlantic flight, but they might as well have seen the sights while they were over there, for all New York cared.

The manager of the lost and found bureau of a large hotel told me that women, in most cases, can tell to the dollar and the pin, what is contained in purses they have lost. A man rarely can identify a lost wallet by the amount of money in it.

At this hotel there is a "permanent guest" who has occupied his immense suite only three or four times this year. He is a millionaire with an estate on Long Island, who likes to have a place he can go to or take his friends when he has to remain in the city. His suite is the most elaborate in the hotel, but none of the employes have seen him enough to recognize him when he unexpectedly arrives.

Comparatively few of the socially elect now maintain houses on Manhattan Island. They dwell in apartments or hotels, and when they entertain in the city hire a place to do it. The servant problem, the rapidly changing character of New York streets and mounting valuations and taxes caused the passing of the New York mansion in favor of the country estate.

The elder and younger J. D. Rockefellers still have town houses, but there have been no changes in them for years. In the meanwhile, father and son have been spending millions in extending and improving their country places.

The city is not without its friends among the wealthy, however. George F. Baker Jr., whose banker father is one of the five richest men in the world, bought a house for $500,000 and tore it down to provide space for a garden adjoining his own town house. A few years ago T. F. Ryan did the same thing. They prefer the city and are willing to spend fortunes in having trees and flowers around them while they live in it.

Once There Was a Steer that went all over the world. But not until after the meat was prepared for market.

The fine hair in its ears went to Paris to be used in an artist's "camel's hair" brush.

The shin bones went to Sheffield, England, where they became knife handles that were carried in men's pockets to South Africa and London.

The sinews and tendons went to Canada and Mexico — first boiled down into glue used in the manufacture of furniture.

Every part of this steer went somewhere and was used—even tiny glands no bigger than peas went to pharmaceutical houses to be made into medicine.

The farmer who raised this steer was glad to sell it to Swift & Company for a good cash price. If he had prepared it for market himself, it would not have been worth so much. Besides the meat, he could have saved only the hide and fats. All the rest of the steer would have been lost.

Swift & Company handles thousands of animals daily and uses every part of them. Economy results.

State Patrolman Refuses Reward

(International News Service)

PHILADELPHIA, July 17. — Honor is its own reward, according to Motorcycle Policeman Carter, of the Delaware River Bridge force, who found a bag containing $5,000 in cash on the bridge, returned it to the owner, and refused a reward.

Miss Reta Lewis, of Merchantville, N. J., after visiting friends in Germantown, placed the money satchel on the running board of her automobile while saying good-bye, and then forgot it and drove away. Half way across the bridge the bag rolled off and Miss Lewis on learning of the loss, reported it at the administration building.

While she was still in the building Patrolman Carter appeared with the missing satchel. Miss Lewis immediately offered the policeman a reward but he refused it.

Correct this sentence: "She is an only child," said the gossip, but she doesn't resent criticism."

Gains Immediate Relief From Her Health Troubles
New Castle Lady Is Benefited By Konjola In Many Ways.

MRS. FREDA CRAFT
Seavy Photo

If you have health—a priceless thing, you have all the reason in the world to be thankful. Health usually is not appreciated until it is gone. Some persons look upon it as something that God gives and about which we as individuals, have nothing to say. This is a mistaken notion. While it is splendid to have Nature bless us with a good physique, the care and protection of this gift is our own responsibility. Konjola is a new medical preparation that helps Nature keep the inner-organs of the human body functioning properly, or if anyone is suffering from disorders of the stomach, liver, kidneys and bowels, or rheumatism and neuritis, this medicine will restore healthy action to those organs and banish all trace of the ailment.

The Konjola Man at the Love and Megown Drug Store, 204 E. Washington street, New Castle, received the following indorsement from Mrs. Freda Craft, 907 Fulkerson street, this city.

"I was so dreadfully rundown at the time I started to take Konjola that I didn't think this one medicine would end all my miseries," said Mrs. Craft, "but it did, and now I am so thankful for the relief it gave me that I want others to know about this remedy.

"Constipation was probably the beginning of all my sickness. At first laxatives gave me relief, but these gradually seemed to lose their effect and I had to keep increasing the dose right along. Instead of getting better, my condition was getting worse. I suffered with frightful headaches until I thought my head would break. My stomach was so disordered that I would belch up bits of food after eating and there would be a heavy lump-like feeling in the pit of my stomach. During the day I always felt tired and drowsy and never had the energy to do things unless I had to.

A slight attack of bronchitis left me with a persistent cough which was very annoying and embrassing. I also suffered with sharp pains through my shoulders, which I had been told was neuritis. All these miseries took the joy out of life and I was at loss to know what to do next for relief.

"Konjola turned out to be the medicine I had always needed. After taking only two bottles of this medicine, all my miseries had left and now I am enjoying better health than I have had for a long time. My digestion is perfect and as a result my stomach never causes me the least trouble any more. The headaches have left me and I don't feel so tired and worn-out like I used to. Konjola also stopped that cough and ended those pains in my shoulders. I can't say too much for Konjola because it has done more for me than anything I had tried before."

The Konjola Man is at the Love and Megown drug store, 204 East Washington street, New Castle, where he is daily meeting the public and introducing and explaining the merits of this remedy. Free samples given.

Fights With No Chance To Win

Socialist Presidential Candidate, Of Aristocratic Origin, Waging Aggressive Campaign From Tiny Office Headquarters; Hopes To Spread Doctrines

By CLARK KINNARD,
Staff Writer for Central Press and New Castle News

NEW YORK, July 17.—One of the candidates for president of the United States knows he has no chance to win the election, but he is waging an aggressive campaign, nevertheless.

Norman Thomas, presidential nominee of the Socialist party, which in 1920 polled a million votes, sees the campaign as an opportunity to educate the electorate in Socialist doctrines.

"I am telling the people that it is within their power, by intelligence and co-operation, to abolish poverty, enlarge the borders of freedom, rid the world of the menace of war and to realize the fellowship of which prophets and poets have dreamed."

Of Aristocratic Origin

Thomas is a contradiction of all the popular ideas of the uninformed layman about Socialists. He is not, like the late leader of the party, Eugene V. Debs, a man who rose to eminence from the ranks of the poverty-stricken toilers. All his immediate ancestors were Americans. He is a Princeton man of aristocratic origin. For 13 years he was a Presbyterian minister. In 1908 he voted for Taft; in 1912 and 1916 for Wilson. He became a Socialist during the World war. He organized the American Civil Liberties union, and is now executive director of the League of Industrial Democracy.

The Socialist nominee has but few words to say about the measure and quality of his opponents.

Views on Other Nominees

"Smith and Hoover are about the best men in their parties, but what this country needs is a political realist. It can't be saved by any Messiahs. There is no cure-all. One thing imperatively needed is a party held together by some other force than a mere desire for office and special privilege."

Thomas is conducting his campaign from a tiny office on the second floor of an obscure building at 70 Fifth avenue. He has no front porch from which to wage a campaign at his home in Greenwich Village, near where Mayor James J. Walker lives. He has a wife and five children, William, Polly, Frances, Rebecca and Evan. "The youngest girl was named Rebecca because she was born on St. Patrick's Day." Mrs. Thomas was Frances Stewart of New York. They were married in 1910.

The nominee is six feet two inches tall. He likes tennis and sailing, and never can remember what size shoes he wears. He was born in Marion, O., and worked for the Marion Star, when the late Warren G. Harding was editor.

Has Opposed Al Before

Opposing Al Smith in a campaign is no new experience for him. He was the Socialist candidate for governor of New York in 1924, when Smith ran ahead of the Democratic ticket and was elected for the third time. Thomas also has been a candidate for state senator, alderman, and mayor. He takes credit for having refused to be a candidate for United States senator.

The need for political education of the American people is great, he says, because "we have not learned to control socially what we have brought into being mechanically and technically."

Thomas' vice presidential running mate on the Socialist ticket is James H. Maurer, president of the Pennsylvania State Federation of Labor.

The OTHER Candidates

Herbert Hoover and Al Smith are not the only formally nominated candidates for the presidency. Here are others:

Socialist party—Norman Thomas of New York, for president; James H. Maurer of Pennsylvania, for vice president.

Workers' party—William Z. Foster of New York, for president; Benjamin Gitlow of New York, for vice president.

Prohibition party—William F. Varney of New York, for president, and James A. Edgerton of Virginia, for vice president.

Chicago Chatter
BY IONE QUINBY

Exclusive Central Press Dispatch to New Castle News

CHICAGO, July 17.—Pickpockets and shoplifters are better organized than any other type of crooks. They believe in systematic preventive methods rather than murderous warfare, and rarely ever go to the lengths of "shooting it out." Men who jostle the crowds in wayfares and street cars and take loose change, watches and pocketbooks with nimble fingers, belong to the Pickpockets' and Shoplifters' organization. Likewise, pretty girls who do disappearing acts with bits of lingerie, silk dresses and fur coats in department stores, and some women with babies in their arms, carrying overnight bags, have membership "cards."

The way they work is this: Each day a pickpocket or shoplifter member of the organization reports at headquarters (not listed in the city directory) and is given a certain spot to work, such as an "L" platform, department store or women's apparel shop, street car, or big parade, or perhaps a large convention. The pickpockets and shoplifters report each hour. If a report doesn't come in from a certain member, lawyers, bondsmen and persons with "pull" are notified to set the "wires" to work. They find out whether the missing member has been arrested, by getting in touch with district police stations, and inquiring about "Jonnie Jones" or "Mary Wilson," usually fake names arranged beforehand.

A lot of pickpockets' loot, such as jewelry, and the shoplifters' toll of lingerie and dresses, is sold by "peddlers" who canvas loop offices where stenographers and clerks entranced by the cheapness of the finery are glad to buy it. Most of them don't know it is stolen stuff. A girl I know found she'd been buying her classy dresses for years from a man who had six girls lifting dresses in exclusive shops and stores. The method is for these girls to go in pairs to look for dresses. One tries them on while the other looks about the store. Women with babes in arms and overnight bags are being watched by store detectives, now, as women with large knitting bags were during the war.

An exclusive store run by a society girl supplies tricky-looking overalls for the Chicago smart set that goes to "dude" ranches in the summer. One man who stopped off at one of these ranches in New Mexico, said it reminded him of a musical comedy chorus, where the pretty girls danced about in different colored silk overalls.

Three Toledo judges are trying to figure out whether a man who confessed the heinous murder of a wee girl and several other killings and clubbings should be sent to prison for life, to the insane asylum, or be executed. The verdict might include a classified advertisement offering for sale one good electric chair, only slightly used.

ICE-BREAKER CONTINUES HUNT FOR ITALIA MISSING

(International News Service)

MOSCOW, July 17—The Soviet ice-breaker Krassin today continued its search of the region north of Foyne Island where the gas bag of the ill-fated dirigible Italia is believed to have come down with the six still-missing members of the airship's crew.

The continued search is buoyed by the hope that the six men may still be alive, encamped somewhere in the Arctic wastes. It is also hoped that the missing rescue expedition of six men led by Capt. Roald Amundsen, noted Arctic explorer, may be located in the same vicinity.

The Krassin yesterday rescued the Russian aviator Chuchnovsky and his four companions from an ice-floe near Cape Platte, North East Land, where their plane had been forced down after sighting Captains Mariano and Zappi, of the Italia crew. At the same time four men in a party sent out to search for Chuchnovsky by the steamer Braganza were also picked up.

Previously the Krassin had rescued the five Italia survivors in the "red tent" group and Mariano and Zappi. Russian officials point with pride to the fact that the Krassin has been the greatest factor in the many rescues following the Italia tragedy, having made all but five of the 21 rescues.

General Nobile was saved by the Swedish aviator Lundborg. Lundborg then was marooned himself and was saved by a countryman, Schyberg. The Italian Alpinist Sora and one of his companions were saved by Swedish and Finnish planes, while Varming, the third member of the original Sora dog-sled expedition, was rescued by the steamer Braganza.

Her Life Threatened

When a burly chauffeur returned the $4,000 diamond and platinum bracelet for which she had advertised, he refused to claim the reward offered by Mrs. Lydia Johnson, wife of the heir to the Palm Olive soap millions. Instead he declared that he wanted HER, threatening to kill her unless she accompanied him from the hotel. The frightened bride is being guarded constantly by a detachment of police.

Make Trip From Citizens Camp Down Potomac River; News Of Camp Work

By FRED BLAHA
Special News Correspondent

FT. WASHINGTON, July 15.—Preparing for two days on the rifle range Co. I recruits have been receiving instructions on putting the lead in bull's eye. Many of the fellows are experiencing much difficulty with some of the orders. Charles M. Ferrante of Wampum, is probably having the most trouble it seems as though, he can't close his left eye. In order that he aim properly it was necessary to tie a handkerchief about his head. Another word about Ferrante he served on K. P. and has been the only fellow so far who considered it an "honor", he thought that the cook and his assistants treated the young men fine who were on K. P.

Returning to the subject of rifle practice, Monday Co. I will receive further instructions and Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday will be spent on the range.

Athletics alone do not constitute all the competition here at camp. Besides the church services held each Sunday morning there are the song and scripture services in the evening. At this time a check is taken on all C M T C companies. The company with the largest attendance is awarded a banner which they hold until the following Sunday. Last year Co. I held it the whole month, this year we have won it for the first two weeks of camp, and hope to retain throughout our stay.

Saturday afternoon all students were given the privilege of visiting Washington. Passes are issued which are necessary in order that the bearer may leave camp. The trip is made by boat down the Potomac. Arriving at Washington the fellows scatter throughout the city, searching for all points of interest. One group made their way to Washington monument. They were Ed. Steed, Dick Means and Parkinson all of Ellwood City. Means and Parkinson had gone up to the top in the elevator, Steede noticing their absence thought they had walked, and decided to catch them, he started running. Imagine his chagrin when all overheated he sees his buddies just as cool as ice, laughing at his mistake.

Other groups started out for the Smithsonian Institute, where the chief object of interest was Lindy's plane. Then and there several fellows decided that it was no easy thing, to live in a plane of that type for any length of time.

Besides being represented by recruits at Fort Washington, New Castle, has an officer at the post. Lieut. John Strothers is an officer in M Co. of C M T C. The commanding officer recognizing the ability of Lieut. Strothers has appointed him editor in chief of the annual for this year. Lieut. Strothers is now serving his seventeenth year with the army. Being with the army at the time of the Mexican insurrection and the world war. He is a member of the faculty at the senior high school.

Saturday night the first C M T C dance was held, it was a big success, according to all reports. Music was provided by a C M T C orchestra, several of the members being from New Castle. A good time was had by all.

Will Take Place Of Younger Lads At Y Camp On Thursday

Report Corn Borer Causes Damage

CONNEAUTVILLE, Pa., July 17.—Considerable damage not only to corn but to several varieties of vegetables and flowers as well is being caused in this section by the European corn borer and other similar worms. A field of potatoes belonging to Wallace Lyman of this place has been badly damaged by what is believed by Agricultural Supervisor G. A. Enders of Conneautville vocational school to be a specias of corn-ear worm, while hollyhocks, gladiolus, tomatoes and other similar plants growing a large stalk are also reported to have been attacked by these worms. People are urged to be on the watch for evidence of the work of these worms or borers and to immediately burn or otherwise destroy the plants thus affected.

Reynoldstowners Meet In Reunion August 14

Once again the Reynoldstown School Association is preparing plans for the 21st annual meeting Tuesday, Aug. 14.

The program will likely be similar to that of former years and should there be a change the same will be announced in the New Castle News.

The plan that has been carried out for a number of years was to meet at the old Pearson street school building at one o'clock, where visiting and necessary business could be conducted, and later in the afternoon to go to beautiful Cascade Park, where a basket picnic supper will be served in one of the pavilions in the grove by the ,kind and generous ladies of the association. Ham, coffee, ice cream, cream for coffee and sugar will be provided free by the association. Should it be stormy in the afternoon, supper will be served at the school building.

All who attended the Pearson street school at any time prior to 1890 inclusive are eligible, together with their families and their friends, to attend the picnic. These meetings have grown in interest until hardly anyone wants to stay away who can possibly attend.

Later notices will appear, but the committee requests the readers to notify any friends living any distance away by mailing their paper of notice.

Officers of the association are as follows: president, John M. Snyder; vice presidents, William T. Butz, Fred L. Rentz, Mrs. Anna McGurk and William G. Dunn; secretary, Mrs. Ella N. Pollock; treasurer, Robert H. Whaley.

Warns Motorists About Halting To Make Roadside Repairs

With the touring season in full swing throughout the country, motorists should exercise particular care in making roadside repairs, so as to protect not only themselves but also other users of the highways, says Bernard N. Hanlon, secretary-manager of the New Castle Motor Club.

In giving his warning, Mr. Hanlon points out that carelessness in stopping for repairs which arise in an emergency is one of the greatest hazards in motoring and one which should not exist if motorists will take steps to eliminate the danger.

"Now that millions of cars are traveling up and down the highways of the nation, the frequency of stopping for roadside repairs is greater," declares Mr. Hanlon. "The first thing to do is to get the car off the road. The danger of working alongside a heavily traveled highway is obvious, yet too many persons are negligent in this respect. The next step is to see that the car itself is properly placed. Even if only a slight grade a good sized stone should be placed behind the front or rear wheels so that the car will not move unexpectedly.

"Care in parking alongside the road to make repairs is doubly a safety measure. It is a protection to the motorist making the repairs, and it also protects all other traffic."

Cooperative Action By Dry Officials Is New Plan Submitted

All Enforcement Branches Of Government Dry Squad To Act In Co-operative Measure

Administrators Ordered To Hold Conferences Twice Monthly To Exchange Views

By ROBERT S. THORNBURGH

WASHINGTON, July 17.—Cooperation of the customs, prohibition and coast guard services to suppress the traffic in liquor and narcotics was specifically ordered today by Acting Secretary of the Treasury Ogden L. Mills.

In official instructions which went to all officers of these services Mills outlined the new treasury policy, evolved out of an exhaustive investigation of the situation.

While cooperation frequently has been urged among the various law enforcement branches of the treasury department, this marks the first time that an official order has been issued making it mandatory. It is taken to indicate that the government believes that concerted and unusual action must be taken to suppress the traffic in rum and dope.

Order Conferences

Officers in charge of any branch or unit of the coast guard, customs, prohibition and narcotic services, stationed in the same city, were instructed to hold conferences twice monthly.

"The purpose of these conferences will be the interchange between officers of all information and evidence relating to violations of the law, coming within their respective jurisdictions, in order that they may be investigated and prosecuted in an effective and expeditious manner," Mills' instructions said.

Where two or more services unite in an investigation or where information or evidence supplied by an officer or one service is utilized by another "full credit shall be given to the service or officer entitled thereto in the final report of the case," according to the order. This method was taken to keep up a better spirit in the services and to stimulate cooperation.

"Any difference of opinion as to the scope of a particular investigation, or as to the service that shall be primarily responsible, should be discussed and settled in a friendly exchange of views, keeping in mind at all times the purpose to be achieved and the necessity for unified harmonious action," Mills said.

Seek New Methods

"Problems difficult or solution, or in regard to which an agreement may not be reached, shall be submitted to the bureaus in Washington and final decision shall be effected by conference between the heads of the services."

The cooperative action was taken up today at the national gathering of prohibition administrators. The conference, meeting with Commissioner James M. Doran, is endeavoring to smooth out many perplexing problems of enforcement and to bring about an application of the law in a manner least offensive to the public. Because of the approach of the election and the fact that prohibition is one of the big issues, administrators were urged to bring about "gentlemanly" as well as effective enforcement.

Obregon Not To Change Policy

Mexican President-Elect In First Statement Says Conditions To Remain

FAVORS UNIFORM LABORING LAWS

(International News Service)

MEXICO CITY, July 17.—Possibility that General Alvaro Obregon's election to the presidency of the Mexican republic would result in an early settlement of the conflict between the Catholic church and the Mexican state diminished today as the result of a statement made by the president-elect in his first interview since the election.

While General Obregon refused to make any definite forecast, he said that "so far as he could see", the situation is virtually the same. The interpretation placed upon his words in most quarters was that he will continue the present religious policy of the Calles government.

General Obregon favors uniform labor laws and will do his utmost to foster aviation. He has not yet given any thought to the personnel of his cabinet.

The President-elect said he would like to visit the United States before taking office in December, but he is so busy with official business that he probably will not have the opportunity.

The thing that astonishes the politicians is not what Al says, but the fact that he says anything.

LAWRENCE COUNTY CAMPERS WARNED BY HEALTH OFFICER

In a statement given out yesterday by the county health authorities, all campers of Lawrence county are warned to forbid from the throwing garbage or other refuse into nearby streams, as a means of disposing it.

The authorities believe that a majority of the campers realize the dangers they might create if this practice were engaged in, and hope that those who are in the custom of making way of their garbage in this manner will stop it immediately. It is a health menace in all respects.

At the present time an inspection tour is being made of the camps on the various streams of the county to determine the conditions and to better them if necessary. The warning however, is directed toward those who might continue to do such and not to the one's who respect the rights of others and who desire to keep the sanitary condition of their camps at a high pitch.

It has been suggested that those who desire some way for disposing of their refuse should either secure a barrel or possibly dig a pit where the left-overs could be thrown. Leaving food or other garbage on the ground creates a breeding ground for flies while throwing it into some stream causes an even greater health menace for those who might be bathing below.

LIONS ENDORSE GOLF COURSE PLAN

Action Taken At Noon Hour Meeting; Dr. Reed Reports On Convention

The New Castle Lions club officially endorsed the municipal golf course project at a meeting which took place at noon today in the dining room of the Elks home. Ed Wilson a member of the municipal golf course committee appointed by the club several weeks ago introduced the resolution of endorsement.

Jay Reed, president of the New Castle club then outlined the convention of Lions International which took place last week as Des Moines Ia. He told of the trip from New Castle to Chicago, of sight-seeing around Chicago and of the parades which were held when the various delegations arrived in Des Moines. About 60 delegates from Pennsylvania were among the 2,100 who attended the convention.

Politics were kept strictly off the convention floor acording to Mr. Reed. However in the lobbies of the convention hall the main topic of discussion was Herbert Hoover and Alfred E. Smith.

At the convention it was learned that the Lions blind committee now has available the interest from a fund of $220,000 which is to be used to prevent blindness in the United States.

The 1929 convention states Mr. Reed will take place at Louisville, Ky.

Youth At Citizens Camp Develops Case Of Scarlet Fever

Immediate Steps Taken To Prevent Any Possible Spread Of Disease

(Special To The News)

FORT HOWARD, July 17.—Leonard Bason of 726 Catherine street, Bloomsburg, Pa., is living the life of a hero at the citizens military training camp here as a result of developing a moderate case of scarlet fever. Last Friday when he did not feel well he reported to sick call and was placed under observation and quarantine. Saturdey when it was certain that he had developed scarlet fever steps were taken immediately to prevent any further spread of the disease.

The men in his same tent were isolated from the rest of the camp and the schedule of training changed so that company "C", of which he had been a member, would not come in contact with the other three companies.

Bason himself is in the hospital under the care of a special nurse and is receiving the best of care and attention. When J. H. Zerbey, Jr., publisher of the "Pottsville, Pa., Evening Republican", whose position as liason officer for the newspapers of the Third Corps area permits him some liberties in the various camps visited the hospital he found Bason in fine spirits and bemoaning the fact that he had been unlucky enough to cause all this annoyance to his fellow students.

Major Zerbey found that every precaution had been taken to prevent further spread of the infection and that every one in camp was being given two physical examinations daily since the diagnosis of the case while culture had been taken from the throats of every member of company "C" which examinations will be continued until there is no possibible chance of additional cases.

Colonel Claude S. Fries, commanding officer of Fort Howard, has issued a statement to all parents through the students in the camp in which he assures them that every possible care will be taken of the boys under his command.

Captain H. B. Gantt, in charge of the hospital, stated "there is no cause for alarm among the parents of the men at camp. Every precaution is being taken and the force of six doctors and four nurses in addition to the 15 members of the medical detachment in the hospital are keeping a watchful eye over the men."

A complete change in training schedule has been made in order that there may be no contact whatever between the members of company "C" and other units at camp, said Captain Francis G. Bonham, commanding officer of company "C". The students in the same tent as the sick candidate have been placed in separate tents near the hospital where they will be given the same care and attention as Bason even though they have not developed any signs of scarlet fever.

Personality Can Be Measured By Science

MADISON, Wis., July 17.—Have you had your personality weighed and analyzed? Scientists are doing it now.

If you make a poor impression, the scientist will measure your personality and tell you what ingredients are lacking in your make-up, the Midwestern Psychological association was told by Dr. A. R. Gilliland, professor of psychology at Northwestern university.

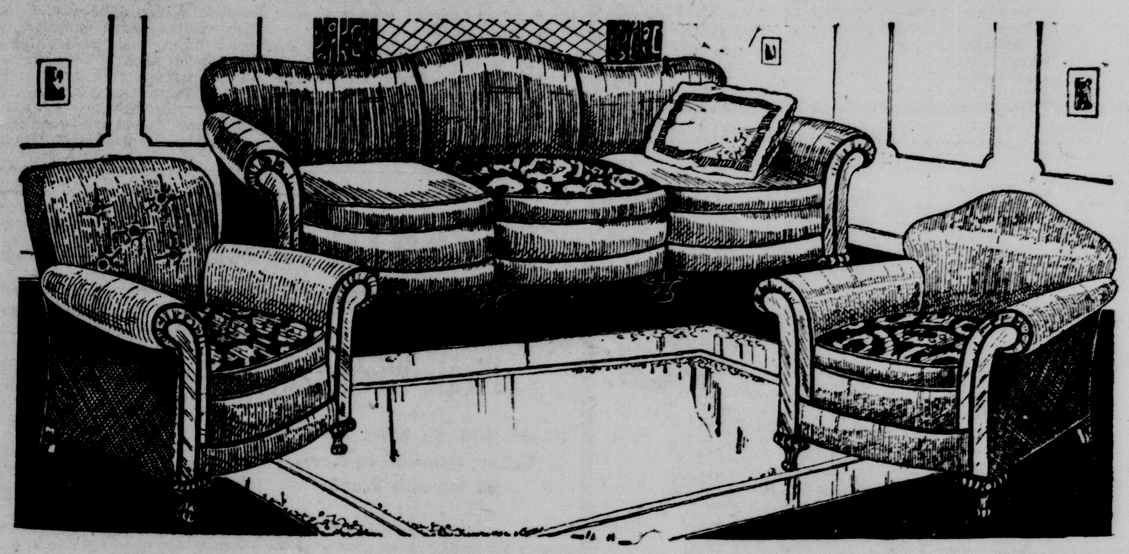

There are four essential ingredients in the perfect personality, Doctor Gilliland said—intelligence, forcefulness, sociability and morality. And the first of these, he emphasized, is "horse sense."

"Psychologists have found that aggressiveness constitutes another extremely important factor in personality and we can measure this in the laboratory," he added. "In fact, our clinics are each day attempting to measure all the personality traits and to catalogue them in a manner that is useful and definite."

THREE POOLS IN ONE

Campaign May Force Wets, Drys Into Open

By CHARLES P. STEWART
Washington Correspondent for Central Press and New Castle News

WASHINGTON, July 17.—The drys are right. The election of a president who is out of sympathy with prohibition would be the blackest kind of a black eye for Volsteadism. It probably wouldn't affect the Eighteenth amendment for quite awhile, but it would be pretty sure to knock the enforcement act galley west.

True, as the wets say, the president can't repeal the law, and he's bound to try to enforce it as he finds it.

I'm prepared to believe that a man like Al Smith, with a reputation as a wet, would lean over backward in the effort to keep his record straight. I don't believe he'd appoint a lot of wet prosecutors and marshals and judges as the drys say he would. I think the very fact that that's what the drys would expect him to do, would prevent him from doing it.

It isn't that an anti-prohibition president would make any difference with enforcement "per se"—except possibly to tighten it up. It's the lesson that politicians would read into the circumstance that an anti-prohibitionist had been elected president at all.

Congress—judging from the way it votes—is about two to one dry.

What does that mean?—that about two-thirds of the senators and representatives are honest-to-goodness prohibitionists? On that question, don't let anybody fool himself.

Something like 5 per cent of our natoinal lawmakers are genuine drys; about 5 per cent are genuine wets. Senator Walsh of Montana undoubtedly would sacrifice his seat in the upper house before he'd cast a wet vote. I'd set Representative LaGuardia down as a conscentious wet.

The other 90 per cent don't give the flip of a copper either way.

All they're after is to be elected. They'd favor the prohibition of ice cream cones if their states or districts demanded it. They'd vote for repeal of the law against counterfeiting rather than be beaten for the 71st congress.

It's this overwhelming congressional majority which is approximately two to one dry.

It's dry because it has a notion that the country's predominantly dry.

For the most part, it isn't very positive of this. That's why it's so insistent that "prohibition isn't an issue." It doesn't want it to be an issue. If ever it becomes an issue—why, these straddlers will have to take one side of it, or the other. At present they're afraid they'll take the wrong side.

But once let it come up as an issue they can't get away from!—which is what this coming national election promises—and let the result indicate a local preference that hints one way or the other—and watch 'em flop accordingly!

My own theory is that next November's election will be decided principally on the wet-and-dry issue. I don't think it's intrinsically the most important issue, but I do consider it the most urgent—nothing else can be settled until that's settled. How it will come out I haven't a guess. Back from Kansas City and Houston, I know the country's wet "de facto"—rather wetter in the supposedly dry mid-west than down here where I live—and had surmised wasn't truly representative. But it doesn't follow that it will vote that way. Strange to say, I'm acquainted with lots of folks who'll offer you a drink and talk prohibition as they hand it to you.

And we also have the anomaly of a senate wet leader who's a total abstainer—Edwards of New Jersey.

There's consistency in that, though. You don't have to be a practicing wet to oppose prohibition. I submit that a dry, who isn't a dry in his personal practice, is a doubtful character.

Welsh Concert Much Enjoyed

Notable Musicians Appear On Program; Other News Notes Of Interest

By WILLIAM A. JOHNS
(Brython)

The concert at the Emanuel Baptist church last Sunday evening, July 15, was well attended. All were quite pleased with the artists that took part in the contest. The first number on the program was well received, a quartet composed of Mrs. John Evans, Mrs. Henry Badger, George Armstrong and Harry Evans. The same spirit was kept up throughout the entire program. The program follows: solo, Mrs. Richard T. Davis; solo, Miss Hughes; duet, George Anthony and Harry Armstrong; solo, Miss Mary Howard; trio, Charles Richards, Margaret Williams and George Anthony; solo, Miss Wana Jenkins; solo, Mrs. William Bluedorn; solo, R. E. Johns; solo, David Lewis; quartet, Miss Sue Hughes, Miss Margaret Williams, Charles Richards and David Lewis; pianist, Prof. Edwin Lewis. The committee on arrangements was William R. Thomas, William Jenkins, Charles Richards and Prof. Edwin Lewis.

Mrs. Katharine Hastings and her daughter, of Los Angeles, are visiting here at the present time. Mrs. Hastings will be remembered as Miss Katharine Walters, who used to live on Fulton street. She is a sister of Mrs. Thomas Morgan of Hannah street. She will visit here some weeks before returning to California.

Mrs. David B. Johns of Woodlawn, Pa., has returned home after attending the sacred concert of the Emanuel Baptist church Sunday evening. She had a good opinion of the concert.

Mrs. Benjamin Thomas of Wales is a visitor in our city. She is the company of Mrs. Morgan of the store on Mill street. Mrs. Thomas is a great singer and very much interested in music.

Saturday evening, July 14, Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Williams of Swansea, South Wales, and Mr. and Mrs. William Francis of Edgewood avenue were entertained at a supper at the home of Mr. and Mrs. R. E. Johns of Park avenue. Monday, July 16, the same party were entertained at the home of John Evans. Outside guests were Mrs. Warner and daughter of New York City.

Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Williams of South Wales will leave New Castle Thursday and will travel to Montreal, Can., and sail from that seaport back to their home in Wales. They attended the Baptist Welsh world convention at Toronto as delegates of the Baptist church of Swansea. Then they visited Mrs. Williams' sister, Mrs. William Francis, of Edgewood avenue. They remained three weeks.

The former Edith Edmunds and children of Philadelphia are visiting with the mother of Edith, Mrs. Mary Edmunds, of South Mercer street. The mother and the children are looking well and they enjoy their home in Philadelphia.

The First Congregational church and the pastor manifest a very good and liberal Christian spirit by curtailing their services Sunday evening so that the members could join with the Emanuel Baptist church in the sacred concert. Several of the Congregational members have also suggested that we hold a union service of the two churches when Rev Emrys Davis will preach his farewell sermon on July 29. The deacons have taken the matter up and give an invitation to the pastor, Rev. Samuel Childing, and his church to join with the Emanuel Baptist that evening.

WANTS TO TELL OTHERS SO THEY MAY BE HELPED

Says Ten Herbs Cleansed System and Relieved Rheumatism and Indigestion.

"Ten Herbs banished all my suffering and benefited me so much that I only wish I could persuade all who suffer as I did to try your medicine, as I feel sure they would be helped as I have been," was the statement of Mrs. C. J. Coe, R. F. D. 2, Greensburg, Pa., according to the Ten Herbs Man, who is at Eckerd's of New Castle, Inc., 30 East Washington Street, New Castle, where he is daily demonstrating this great natural medicine.

MRS. C. J. COE

"I had two attacks of intestinal influenza, which left me in a very weakened and run-down condition," Mrs. Coe continued. "My whole system seemed saturated with poisons, which I was unable to get rid of due to severe chronic constipation. My appetite was poor and my stomach so weak I had to be very careful what I ate, and what little I did eat, caused intense pain in my stomach and around my heart, the result of gas. At times, I was so short of breath I could not walk across the room without resting. My kidneys also were in a very bad condition. I had rheumatic pains, and there were pains across my back, which would become so sore and stiff, that I could hardly arise in the morning.

"I had read of Ten Herbs helping so many persons, that I decided to try your medicine, although I had about given up hope of finding anything that would build up my system. After taking Ten Herbs a few days, I felt improved, and began to eat and sleep better. Then I gained in strength, due to my stomach being able to digest food properly. My bowels became regular, and my system seemed to throw off the poisons that had troubled me. Rheumatic pains now are gone, and I arise in the morning feeling better than I have for years."

The Ten Herbs Man is at Eckerd's of New Castle, Inc., 30 East Washington Street, New Castle, where he is daily meeting the public and explaining the merits of this medicine.

Eruptions Caused Unspeakable Pain Cuticura Healed

"My arms and hands broke out with a rash which spread to my face and formed hard, red pimples. The pimples festered and irritated to such an extent that I could not keep my hands from them, and the more I scratched the more they burned. After scratching, large eruptions formed that caused unspeakable pain and entire loss of rest. I was ashamed to go to any place.

"The trouble went on for about four months and all the time I was trying different remedies but without relief. I began using Cuticura Soap and Ointment and in one month I was completely healed." (Signed) George Smith, 528 State St., Brooklyn, N.Y., March 12, 1928.

Lightning Hits Bed, Man Is Uninjured

Bolt Spends Its Strength On Springs Of Bed After Striking Aerial

GROVE CITY, Pa., July 17.—Archie King of Millbrook, near here, had an unusual experience during the severe electric storm which struck this section last week. Shortly after midnight on the night of the storm King was awakened by a clap of thunder and the entire room was lighted as though it was on fire, while at the same time his bed was almost torn from under him.

Investigation showed that a bolt of lightning had struck the outside aerial of his radio set and had traveled to his bed, spending its strength in the springs of the bed. The wires of the bedsprings were a twisted mass and the bed itself torn to pieces but King was neither stunned nor injured. His son, who was sleeping in the same room in another bed, was not awakened. There was no other damage done to the house. During the same storm a new house at Centertown, near Millbrook, was struck and several rafters torn loose.

Ellwood Manages Own Motor Club

Plan Of Organizing District Clubs Into A County Organization Given Up

ELLWOOD CITY, July 17.—Many motorists of the Ellwood City community are confused relative to the local motor club and its affiliation with the New Castle club into a county organization. This plan was originally considered but the officials of the two clubs finally decided that in not using the name of the city in which the club operated, the effect of national publicity to such a town was destroyed, in calling a club a county club rather than a city club. Therefore the directors of the Ellwood City club are now conducting a membership campaign to enlarge the membership of the local club, so that increased membership may mean increased service to the many members.

A meeting of the campaign committee, Ray Aylesworth, chairman, will be held this evening at 7:30 o'clock at the motor club headquarters in the First National bank building. A full attendance of captains and lieutenants is desired.

It so happens that the New Castle Motor club is also this week conducting a membership drive, and the slogan now on the lips of the motor club enthusiasts is "Beat New Castle". The many members of the Ellwood teams are working hard among the business and mill people and are attempting to cover the entire motorist field. The club has circularized this field and the chairman, Ray Aylesworth, reports that many applications are coming to the club by mail.

Every member of the club is urged to support the work of the campaign committee, individually. At Uniontown, Secretary McNelly reports, 602 members were brought into the club by the membership in a personal membership campaign in less than two months. Butler has a live club of nearly 1500 members. Sharon has one of Pennsylvania's active clubs with 2000 members, while Washington, Pa., recently completed a drive and has nearly 2000 members.

Ellwood City, one of the leading little cities in the state, can do just as well, and it is hoped that over 500 new names will be added to the rolls of the club this week.

Alleged Chicken Thieves Caught

COLUMBUS, July 17.—Police believe they have broken up a ring of wholesale chicken thieves operating in central Ohio in the arrest today of 13 persons and confiscation of two automobiles and more than 1,000 chickens in a series of raids.

Several children were among those taken into custody. Anna Worthington, 26, who gave her home as Dayton, was arrested with her year-old daughter and another girl, Bertha Smith, 19, was among those held.

Police say the thievery has been going on on a large scale for some time and included two thefts at Newark last week when chickens valued at $200 were stolen.

The reason some people have so much trouble is because they have flivver incomes and truck manners.

Interesting Golf Tournament Soon

ELLWOOD CITY, July 17.—Much interest among golf enthusiasts is being evinced over the approaching match between the local club and Ambridge. Particularly keen will be the match between the Ellwood golf professional Fred Loeffler and the "Pro" of Ambridge, Gray. Both are clever players, and a large gallery will no doubt follow their strokes.

The tournament takes place Wednesday afternoon on the links of the local Country club, as a part of the sports program for this season.

Accident Victims Reported Doing Very Nicely Today

No Truth To Persistant Rumors Regarding The Death of George Bookamer

ELLWOOD CITY, July 17.—George Bookamer, son of Mr. and Mrs. David Bookamer of Ore street, is reported as doing nicely in the New Castle hospital today. He figured in an accident Sunday evening when the car in which he was riding collided with another car on the New Castle-Ellwood Highway. The car was owned and operated by G. M. Welch of Todd avenue. Both boys, however, escaped luckily without fatalities. Mr. Welch suffered a scalp wound and a deep cut in one arm, but is reported as resting comfortably.

Miss Mary Riffer At Conneaut Lake

Attends Lutheran Assembly Sessions; Others Plan To Attend Event

Miss Mary Riffer of Park avenue is at Conneaut Lake this week attending the first Pittsburgh Synod Lutheran assembly as a representative of the St. John's Evangelical Lutheran church of this city. The assembly convened yesterday and will continue until next Sunday, July 22.

According to Rev. F. F. Stough of the St. John's church, the gathering is really a school for church workers, including young people's workers, missionaries and others. A faculty consisting of some of the most noted leaders in their various lines in America will instruct the representatives and others in conferences.

One of the highlights of the week's program is scheduled for next Sunday morning when the Rev. Ellis B. Burgess, president of the Pittsburgh Synod delivers the assembly sermon at 11 a. m. In order to make it possible for more New Castle folks to attend this sermon the morning service of the St. John's church will be dropped for the day. Sunday school will be held at the usual hour, and at the close of this it is hoped that as many persons will go to hear Rev. Burgess as can possibly make the trip.

Engagement Proves To Be Marriage

CHICAGO, July 17.—Adrian McDowell and Kathlyn Casey merely wanted to get engaged—but they did want the engagement to be official, so they had it recorded by appearing with a license before a Paw Paw, Mich., justice of the peace.

That was a year ago. Now Mrs. Kathlyn Casey McDowell has discovered that the "engagement" procedure made them man and wife. She filed a bill for annulment.

Woman Seeks To Have Estranged Husband Nabbed

Mrs. Miriam Noel Wright, Estranged Wife Of Noted Architect Seeks Warrant

(International News Service)

LOS ANGELES, Cal., July 17.—The district attorney's office today was investigating a complaint lodged by Mrs. Miriam Noel Wright against her estranged husband, Frank Lloyd Wright, noted architect, and Olga Milanoff, Russian dancer. Mrs. Wright alleges that Wright and the dancer are carrying on an illegal love affair. She tried to obtain a "morals" warrant against the couple.

Mrs. Wright recently was given a 30 days suspended sentence at San Diego after she had wrecked the furnishings of her husband's home at La Jolla.

In asking for the warrant, which was denied, Mrs. Wright said her husband and the dancer were now in Los Angeles.

The Story Of Our War With Spain
Prospects Of American Intervention In Cuba

UNDER THE BRUTAL RULE OF THE SPANISH GENERAL WEYLER, THE WAR IN CUBA BETWEEN THE SPANISH FORCES AND THE CUBAN REVOLUTIONISTS CONTINUED WITH EVER-INCREASING HORRORS. WHILE THE NEUTRAL PEASANTS STARVED IN WEYLER'S "RECONCENTRATION" CAMPS, MUCH OF THE ISLAND WAS DEVASTATED WITH A LOSS TO AMERICAN INVESTORS ALONE OF NEARLY $50,000,000.

IN THE UNITED STATES, THE PUBLIC DEMAND THAT THIS BARBAROUS AND RUINOUS WARFARE BE STOPPED GREW LOUDER AND STRONGER. PRESIDENT CLEVELAND HAD MAINTAINED NEUTRALITY WITH DIFFICULTY DURING HIS ADMINISTRATION, AND DECLARED THAT IF THE CUBAN WAR DID NOT CEASE WE SHOULD BE OBLIGED TO INTERVENE.

IN 1897, PRESIDENT McKINLEY DEMANDED THAT SPAIN SHOULD TAKE IMMEDIATE MEASURES TO PACIFY CUBA. IN SPAIN THE LIBERAL PARTY HAD JUST COME INTO POWER, AND THE SPANISH GOVERNMENT, AFTER SENDING US A CONCILIATORY REPLY, RECALLED WEYLER, AND SENT GENERAL BLANCO TO CUBA TO MAKE REFORMS.

BLANCO PUT AN END TO "RECONCENTRATION", TOOK STEPS TO RELIEVE THE STARVING PEASANTS, ADMITTED CUBANS TO CERTAIN OFFICES, AND FORMALLY PROMISED CUBA "HOME RULE". BUT THE CUBANS HAD CAUSE TO DISTRUST SPANISH PROMISES, AND GOMEZ, THE INSURGENT LEADER, REFUSED TO ACCEPT ANYTHING SHORT OF ABSOLUTE INDEPENDENCE.

Firpo, Wallace, Pacelli And Louder Win Bouts

Great Crowd Sees Five Classy Bouts

Firpo Drops O'Malley In First, But O'Malley Comes Back Fighting And Bout Goes Limit, But Firpo Wins; Rio And Wallace Staged Exciting Bout, But Decision Goes To Wallace; Romeo Pacelli Scores Big Hit By Winning From Rugged Young Terry McGovern; Louder Stops Falk; Powers And Canzoni Fight Thrilling Four-Round Draw

By ED FRITZ

BOXING scored another triumph when enthusiasts from Cleveland, Pittsburgh Youngstown, Meadville, Greenville, Butler, Sharon, Beaver Falls, Ellwood City and New Castle packed Jolly bowl last night and witnessed five classy bouts, four of which were won by Young Firpo, Billy Wallace, Romeo Pacelli and Joe Louder and a draw between Jackie Poers and Tony Canzoni.

The battles were fast and there was not one minute of stalling in the entire show. All the boys were evenly matched and the decisions met with the approval of the several thousand fans and fanettes.

Young Firpo, Louisville, and Joe O'Malley of Columbus, O., fought in the main bout of ten rounds and O'Malley lost. Firpo was too clever and smart for the rugged O'Malley, who was hit six times to one, but no difference how hard the smart battler from Louisville tried he could not drop O'Malley for the full count. Several times Joe was on the floor but he always arose, senses clear, and battled viciously.

Sends O'Malley Down.

Firpo went to work with the bell and O'Malley stood up to him. Toward the middle of the round Firpo sent him down with a right to the stomach and after O'Malley got up they wrestled and O'Malley went down again. After that O'Malley got his bearings and fought viciously and in the second staggered Firpo with a right to the jaw. The blow almost dropped him but O'Malley lacked the polish that characterized Firpo's fighting.

The Louisville boy and O'Malley slugged and boxed for four more rounds with honors belonging to Firpo as it was a case of a boxer with a sharp sock against a slugger with an ordinary punch but in the sixth O'Malley caught all the right hand blows that could be delivered at him. In the seventh it was tit for tat and the eight was characterized by slugging as Firpo stepped right into the milling.

No difference how fast he sent over blows he found the boy from Columbus willing to devour them and while one or two in each round may have sent the cobwebs spreading through his cerebrum he recovered quickly and came back viciously but at the end of the tenth round the judges gave the decision to Firpo. O'Malley lost but he did so because Firpo was too fast and good for him but it is seldom that a fight between two 150-pounders furnishes as much real fighting.

Great Semi-Final.

The semi-final was a great bout between Frankie Rio, Cleveland, and Billy Wallace, Youngstown, junior lightweights. They milled from bell to bell in every round and at the end of each session the several thousand fans cheered themselves hoarse, the shouting of approval only being ended when the lights were snapped out along the bleachers. Wallace was given the decision unanimously by Judges Henry Goldberg and Chauncey Davis and the referee, George Chip. Wallace took the last round and it is probable that the way he forced Frankie around the ring in this session had plenty to do with the award.

Last Monday night they met in a vicious go and when they stepped into the ring they were welcomed by a big round of applause, Wallace being the favorite, no doubt due to the decision of last week, but Rio got his round and the fight started with Rio delivering lefts to the face. Wallace tossing rights to the head and the first round was brimful of actoin.

Rio sent lefts to the face in the second and Wallace walked in swinging a mean right. Rio boxed rings around the Youngstown boy in the first part of the second but was slowed up when Billy caught him with a right to the head. Wallace tried desperately to land his right but it missed innumerable times. Wallace did not want to break ground a step and they belabored each other every second.

Vicious Battle.

Again Rio stepped forth with a left and then sent in rights to the jaw. He backed Wallace with a left to the chin and delivered a right. He stopped Wallace suddenly with a right to the chin but Wallace came back viciously with a right to the chin and two uppercuts that shook Rio from head to foot and changed the entire complexion of the round. He continued to land on Rio and his legs were weak when he went to his corner as Wallace's rally had earned him the round.

Rio's rapier left brought blood from Wallace's nose and then clipped Billy with a left hook. Wallace shot two short, stiff jolts to Rio's chin in a clinch and they slugged right and left to the head. They fought to and fro across the ring and neither gave ground. Rio drove Wallace to the ropes with both hands but Wallace outfought him in a clinch on the ropes. It was another great round.

Both landed right hand punches to the jaw in the fifth. Frankie caught him coming in but took a hard right in the jaw in return. Wallace lifted a left to the jaw and Rio commenced circling around the ring. Wallace caught him with a good right uppercut to the jaw. It was a fast round and of the two it apparently was Rio.

They refused to shake hands coming out in the sixth and they went to work immediately. Rio rushed Wallace to the ropes but Wallace landed a left to the face. Wallace caught Rio coming in with a stiff right to the head and Frankie stepped away and lost Wallace momentarily in the dust. Wallace followed him up and sent a left to the body and right to the head and forced the fighting. They went to close quarters and he clouted Frankie with right and left to the chin. He was forcing Rio around the ring when the bell rang and took the decision.

Classy Romeo Pacelli, the good looking boy from the South Side displayed himself like a million dollars when he punched Young Terry McGovern (Johnny Sanfrey) of Warren, full of holes although McGovern is reputed to be one of the toughest and most experienced youngsters in this vicinity. Pacelli took the first round and did terrible execution with hooks to the stomach in the second as McGovern used a Jeffries crouch which Romeo figured out successfully.

Classy Romeo Wins

Romeo, the boxer sent McGovern down for five in the third but he came up fighting and threw a hundred right hand punches at the phantom Romeo. At the end of the round Romeo's punching had sapped most of the fire from the Warren boy. In the fourth Romeo started off with a lead and although McGovern battled desperately and tried to land haymakers Romeo had him faded. Once, near the end of the round when McGovern hit him over the kidneys with a right the crowd sighed "Oh" but the glove was open when the punch was delivered.

Romeo waltzed around McGovern who followed him with his two hands flying every second in the fifth but it was a case of where the boxer used his brain and knew that he would win by playing a smart game and he took the round. Romeo almost dropped McGovern with a right to the chin in the sixth and he brought blood from his nose with a stabbing left. McGovern rushed in, delivered half a dozen right but Romeo tied him up quickly and was stabbing him like Tunney jabbed Dempsey at Chicago when the bell ended the fight.

Joe Louder proved too smart for Willie Falk and the bout was stopped in the third round after Falk had been sent down several times. In the first preliminary Jackie Powers and Tony Canzoni fought a great four round bout the decision being called a draw.

Next Monday night Carl Cavelli, formerly of New Castle will meet Willie Davis in the main bout of ten rounds.

HEENEY? TUNNEY? FIZZLE?

Norman E. Brown Discusses Eventualities Of Three Possible Outcomes Of Heavyweight Championship Fight

By NORMAN E. BROWN
Staff Writer for Central Press and New Castle News.

What if Tom Heeney lifts the world's heavyweight crown from Gene Tunney's head?

What if Tunney retains his title?

What if the bout's a terrible frost, one way or the other?

These questions are hard to answer.

Heeney has a chance—discussed previously—of defeating Tunney when they meet July 26. It will be unfortunate for the British challenger, but true, nevertheless, that a victory over the champion, however decisive, will not place the new champ on a plane level with that on which John L. Sullivan, Jim Corbett, Bob Fitzsimmons, Jim Jeffries, Jack Johnson and Jack Dempsey stand in heavyweight history.

This is because Tunney's status, as a champion, is still in doubt. One may feel personally that Tunney is as great as Corbett, the master strategist of all time—but there is nothing in Tunney's career to indicate it.

A victory, then, for Heeney would not set him above Johnny Risko, Paolino Uzcudun and the others who sought the chance to meet Tunney. Heeney's showing against these men was not decisive enough to stamp him as of better caliber.

There will be but one course open to Heeney, should he win. That will be to take on Risko and the other logical contenders in succession and prove his right to the title of champion of all the heavies.

From a financial standpoint a victory for Heeney might revive the heavyweight game. A victory for Tunney will leave it stranded in the atmosphere of apathy in which it now rests.

What if Tunney wins in decisive fashion?

Whether or not such a verdict will be unfair to Tunney the consensus of opinion—in view of Heeney's record to date—will be that Heeney simply lived up to the prophesy of most folks. That is, that he was nothing but a setup for Tunney from the time the bout was conceived.

A quick knockout victory for Tunney will perhaps bring Gene credit for having a stiffer punch than he is now credited with having. But on the other hand the value of this wallop will be discounted because of the class of the gentleman socked.

On the other hand a sudden and decisive victory for the champion will continue the slump in the heavyweight market that has existed since Jack Dempsey stepped, temporarily at least, out of the picture.

The gate receipts alone will give the first tipoff on just what part Dempsey played in making Tunney a millionaire—and swelling Rickard's fortune, too.

Will Tunney, seeing that the fight is his, risk injuring his hands by trying to beat down the Britisher? It has bene said that Tunney's desire to sidestep unnecessary brutality has guided him in his work against Dempsey and other opponents—that he restrains intentionally from knocking out his victims, resting on the confidence that he can defeat them without so doing and protect himself meanwhile.

This does not sound reasonable. Tunney should know that as long as the other man is on his feet he is a menace to the title and the fortunes it brings.

Tunney will try for a knockout.

And such a victory will merely prove what the majority of the folk suspect—that Heeney was "built up" for the champ.

And what if the bout should prove to be "one of those things"?

What if it goes the limit, or close to it?

If Tunney wins in such an event the victory will add nothing to what prestige he now has. Rather, it will be offered to prove that his victories over Dempsey came from Dempsey's frailities and not Tunney's mastery of the game. Tunney's adherents can claim that Gene "carried" the challenger. But heavyweight champions have not been given to carrying their opponents. Heavyweight championship fights—with one exception—have spelled action.

Should Heeney win on points (which is next door to impossible) or by a technical knockout or legitimate k. o. near the end of the bout he will leave the heavyweight situation in a confused but possibly a rather blessed state. There will then be an open race for general recognition as heavyweight champion. Certainly, Heeney will not be able to place himself above the boys who worried him on his road to the Tunney bout.

The fight should never have been booked. But now that it is to be staged the chances are that it will be a flop.

From the fan's standpoint a defeat for Tunney will at least settle his statues. A victory cannot. And yet there is no reason to cry for the blood of Tunney. He has failed dismally to supplant Jack Dempsey as an idol, but that is not his fault. He has tried earnestly, according to his lights, to improve boxing—at least to lend dignity to the profession.

But the fans want a heavyweight champion who is a fighter by desire, and at heart.

The fight isn't going to help the heavyweight situation or the game in general very much.

Any Other Worlds?

By Feg Murray

The report that a benefit match might soon be arranged between Helen Wills and Suzanne Lenglen gives rise to the fond hope in this humble cartooner's breast that such a thing may come to pass, and then the question of superiority between the two will be settled once and for all, and in favor of the American girl, I am sure, for she is so much better a player now than she was two and a half years ago when she lost to the French flash at Cannes by a score of 6-3, 8-6.

Also an invitation comes to the tennis lady of our land to play in Australia, which is a fine thing for both parties—meaning Helen and Australia. It would give her a chance to get revenge on some New Zealander, too, for the licking Tom Heeny is going to give Gene Tunney. (Please don't take me seriously.)

Helen's feat (or Helen's feet, whichever you prefer—both were remarkable) in adding a second British title to her long collection, without losing a set to such stars as Senorita D'Alvarez and Elizabeth Ryan, who used to beat her regularly over here drove the English tennis scriveners completely out of adjectives. They realize in dear old Blighty now that the American beauty is gradually overshadowing the performances of all her predecessors. She is occupying the the pedestal Lenglen once was enthroned on, and is finding it a trifle too small for her fast-growing popularity and skill.

Helen Wills now has won seven national titles, not counting her 1924 Olympic crown—the same as Bobby Jones, and next September they may each have eight!

Epworth Drops To Presbyterians 6-0

The Central Presbyterians downed the Epworth M. E. team 6 to 0 in a church league game played at the Scotland Lane field on Monday night.

Central Christians Trim Hakoah 6-5

The Central Christians nosed out a 6 to 5 verdict over the Hakoah team in a well played game at the Lehigh field.

The Christians had difficulty in hitting H. Plant effectively and had but four hits, but they bunched them when hits meant runs. Lewis, on the knoll for the Christians, allowed eight hits.

Zieve featured the game in the seventh inning by punching out a home run with the bases loaded, and the Hakoah team scored five runs before the side was retired, and for a time they threatened the lead of the Christians. The Christians bunched hits in the fourth chapter to tally five runs. Shiek relieved Lewis in the seventh and fanned two men to stop the Hakoah rally.

Russell Grannis Will Be Honored

The Central Presbyterians will play the First Christians tonight at the Scotland Lane field, in a Church League game. The game will start at 6:30 o'clock Daylight Savings Time, and will be known as "Grannis Night".

Russell Grannis, the sterling catcher of the Presbyterians, will soon leave for Greensburg, Pa., and the fans are planning a ceremony and celebration for him tonight. A large crowd is expected to be present at the game tonight as the Grannis battery of Williams and Russell has proven quite popular in the Church League. The Presbyterians are losing a good catcher, and a youth who is destined to go higher.

Latzo Loses To Tommy Loughran

Light-Heavyweight Champion Earns Decision Over Hard Coal Miner

BITTER FIGHTING MARKS PROGRAM

By DAVIS J. WALSH
Sports Editor International News Service

WILKES-BARRE, Pa., July 17. — Another episode of that diverting serial, title-defending while you wait—piece work our specialty; satisfaction guaranteed—was produced at the local ball park last night and quite according to Hollywood standards the handsome young hero foiled the scowling "heavy" throughout and inclusive. In other and fewer and perhaps better words, Tommy Loughran beat Pete Latzo in ten rounds of bitter fighting and thus, for the fourth time within eight months, he climbed out of the ring with his light heavyweight championship intact.

One-Hand Fight

It was a good fight; also an unusual one. Loughran won it with one hand, the left. This he used to nip, rip and bash Latzo's Slavic features almost to the point of monotony. It tallied it "six, two and two," giving Latzo none the better of the break, at that. Yet some of Loughran's winning rounds were fairly close and the two that I called even might have gone either way without injustice.

Another unusual circumstance was occasioned by the fact that there was some 15,000 souls present and 14,684½, three watches agreeing, were for the product and pride of the region, Pete Latzo, like Jesse James was for the deputy sheriffs. In case I fail to clarify the point, they were not for Latzo, at least, not until they were quite certain he had blown the decision. After that, it is presumed they conceded him to have once been a good guy even if he had never had it.

Off hand, I would say, too, that Loughran's one handed fight was far from orthodox. He held that right high all the way, seldom dropping it for a punch even when Latzo was crowding him to the ropes and the straight left didn't figure to keep him away. But, if nothing else, the fight determined one thing: there is no particular need of Latzo appearing further in the script for the Loughran serial. Pete fought his usual crowding fight and all it got him was a retouching that will last him until further notice.

Cubs And Pirates Have Won Seven Straight Games In Past Week Of Play

YANKEES DOWN INDIANS TWICE

By LES CONKLIN
International News Service Staff Correspondent

NEW YORK, July 17.—Seven straight for the Cubs and Pirates, and nine straight for the Phillies and Braves! The first two clubs are enjoying a winning streak, while the last two are in the throes of a slump. All of which has contrived to make the race between the first six and the last two teams of the National League more lop-sided than a Scotchman's golf ball.

The fireworks in the American League are being furnished by the Chicago White Sox. The same players who couldn't win under Cracker Schalk have copped eight of their last ten games under the management of the veteran Lena Blackburne. The pale hose two-timed the Red Sox again yesterday, 4 to 0 and 9 to 1, with Faber and Blankenship doing the throwing. Boston is back in the old homestead, the American League cellar.

Yanks Take Two.

The Yankees again took both ends of a double bill from Cleveland, 7 to 3 and 6 to 2, and there is a strong rumor current that the champions have snapped out of their slump. George Pipgras hung up his 16th victory in the opener, when Babe Ruth smacked his 35th homer. Hennery Johnson twirled the Yanks to victory in the nightcap, in which Robert Meusel made four hits, including a homer, for a perfect day at bat. Twenty-four Indians were stranded on the bases.

After losing to the Athletics, 3 to 2, Detroit went wild in the eighth inning of the nightcap and scored nine runs, winning 11 to 6. The A's are 12½ games behind New York.

Partridge's wild throw in the ninth gave St. Louis a 7 to 6 victory over Brooklyn.

The Giants made in three straight from the Reds. Lindstrom's hit in the tenth gave Genewich a 3 to 2 decision over Donohue.

Heavy hitting by Big Poison Waner and Grantham helped Pittsburgh beat the Braves, 8 to 6.

Maguire drove in four runs as the Cubs outslugged Philadelphia, 10 to 5.

General Alvin Crowder, a Washington discard, chalked up his 11th win when the St. Louis Browns nosed out the Senators in the tenth, 4 to 2.

Ballerino To Battle Freddie

Mike Ballerino, ex-champion of the junior lightweights and Freddy Fitzgerald will clash in a 10 round bout at Idora Park, Youngstown tonight. Johnny Corbett, marine will meet Frankie Buff in the semi-final. Bud Bollender and Young Smith will clash and there will be another bout on the card.

Another Dream of Big Money?

© 1928, by King Features Syndicate, Inc. Great Britain rights reserved

By QUIN HALL.

MISTER TEX RICKARD, the impresario in big league boxing, and sometimes referred to as the King of the Cauliflower Industry, has become acclimated to dreaming in millions when anticipating the staging of a heavyweight melee.

This dreaming of massive gates has been aided and abetted in the past by Mister Jack Dempsey, the ex-King of Sock, who is as colorful as a sunset.

At the present moment Mister Rickard has his sleeves rolled up and is prepared to shoot the ballyhoo on the coming heavyweight joust between Mister Tunney, the titleholder, and Mister Tom Heeney, who, after various eliminations, was chosen as the 1928 model challenger for the crown.

And Mister Rickard is, naturally, again figuring on taking in much money at the turnstiles and over the counter in advance sales.

Just how his dream for this year is going to materialize remains to be seen. It is the first time in some years that Tex has gone to the post without the aid of the colorful Mister Dempsey and, as a side light to the scrap between the champion and the challenger, it will be interesting to see how it works out.

The boys who rest their chins on the stretched canvas of the ring and spend all of their time in writing of things fistic seem to agree that when it comes to color the coming fracas is going to be as devoid of that article as one of these political meetings is long on oratory.

They say that Mister Tunney, since becoming boss of the division, has shown nothing approaching color nearer than his knowledge of Shakespeare, and they are rather inclined to laugh that off.

Mister Heeney, while being dubbed the Solid Rock from New Zealand, remains drab and uninteresting, from the viewpoint of the wise ones. In other words, they agree that you wouldn't expect to find either of these gents driving a lavender car with orange wheels up the boulevard and that would be considered merely a modest gesture for Mister Dempsey when the Manassa Mauler was training for a skirmish inside the ropes, and seeking publicity.

These wise ones also point out the fact that neither of the gladiators, who are billed to appear in the next heavyweight duel, tote a sleep producer. They figure that in an evening's entertainment of this character old John R. Ticket-buyer likes to look forward to a little crashing and while "One-Eyed" Connolly and Tammany Young will doubtless be on hand old John R. likes to see his crashing done in the ring and not at the gate—especially in view of the prices at which Rickard has scaled the house.

So the financial outcome of the coming boxing tournament is going to be as interesting, in one way or another, as the tournament itself.

There is a certain clique in New York, however, that feels that Mister Rickard knows his public and that with the announcement of the quarrel the "big gate" was as good as "in the bag." They figure that Tex is too wise and too old in the game to book an attraction that he could not ballyhoo up to a point where he had the voters goofy and the old iron men clinking into the coffers.

Undoubtedly Rickard is a wise manipulator of fighters and finances. He is a shrewd judge of mankind and that takes in fighters as well as the customers. It is difficult to see how he could stage a flop—especially a financial flivver and we're talking finances now and not fights or fighters.

Still, as the boy's say, a million bucks is a pile of bucks—but then again, that's the way Tex has become accustomed to figuring these things.

CHARGES PAIR MADE ATTEMPT TO WRECK HIS CAR ON STREET

Last night a charge of surety of the peace and reckless driving was made against Robert B. Putt and Paul Engler by Paul Grossman, all of this city at the office of Alderman William E. Marshall.

Grossman alleges that Putt and Engler had chased him up Jefferson street attampting to wreck his car and that they pursued him through various streets and alleys when he tried to elude them.

Both Putt and Engler pleaded not guilty and put up the $50 bond.

The case will be heard in the September term of court.

BILL McKECHNIE

History seems to repeat itself, at least when it is in the capable hands of Manager Bill McKechnie.

McKechnie took over the bossing of the Pittsburgh Pirates when they were discouraged and down in the ruck and whipped them into champions. Now he seems to be doing the same thing for the Cardinals.

Despite previous successes the baseball world hadn't recognized McKechnie's worth as a leader until this season, when he made a disgruntled St. Louis outfit into league leaders.

FRANKIE FRISCH

Frank Francis Frisch, stellar second baseman of the St. Louis Cardinals, first broke into the limelight while playing college baseball at Fordham.

Frisch's work attracted the eye of Manager John McGraw of the Giants, and when he graduated from school he was grabbed by the New York team. This was in 1919.

Frank has been a great batter and a wonderful fielder throughout his major league career. He has a major league career batting average of .324. He has also starred in four world series.

Late in 1926 the Giants traded Frankie and Jimmie Ring of St. Louis for Rogers Hornsby.

Frisch, a former football star, bats either right or left- handed, weighs 175 pounds and is five feet nine inches tall.

AN IMPORTANT ANNOUNCEMENT—In 1½ years of tire repairing I have torn down and rebuilt thousands of tires including every tire on the American market, except one. That one was Mohawk. Naturally, I became curious as to why no Mohawks came my way. And when the inevitable happened and an enthusiastic Mohawk user brought a worn Mohawk into my shop for repair, I discovered the reason. Careful workmanship and the finest cord fabrics and pure rubber available were combined in that Mohawk tire. It was not the makeshift product of a volume production. It contained none of the cost-cutting and mileage reducing compounds and substitutes that I had found in most of the other tires I had repaired. It was a quality tire through and through, built of the strongest fabrics and finest rubber available. My search for the best tire ended when I repaired that Mohawk. I applied for the Mohawk franchise. And I am pleased to announce that I have been appointed distributor for Mohawk quality tires and tubes in New Castle and vicinity. Mohawk's fifteen year reputation for manufacturing nothing but the highest quality products and my own tests of Mohawk construction are your bond of satisfaction. You will find in Mohawk Tires a greater money's worth than you have ever experienced before, no matter what tires you may have used. Try them next time. Pearsall's Tire Service, 324 S. Jefferson Street. 262t2*—8

PITTSBURGH, July 17.—E. R. Griffith, of Sharon, has been named chairman of the heavier-loading committee of the Allegheny Regional Advisory Board, it was learned here today. Griffith is traffic manager of the Sharon Steel Hoop Company.

The purpose of the heavier-loading committee, newly formed, is to encourage shippers to co-operate in loading freight cars to the maximum, in order that the greatest possible efficiency can be obtained by railroads. The regional advisory boards, organized throughout the country, were started to develop co-operation between transportation systems and shippers.

Emerges From China

Chinese revolutions have a fascination for C. S. Hirsch, above, American adventurer and author. He has "attended" every revolution and incipient war in China since 1920, and has personally known every dictator from Dr. Sun Yat Sen to Chang-Tso-Lin. Returning to the U. S. to recuperate, after the rigors of campaigning with the Nationalists, Hirsch declares the present internal warfare will last for at least 100 years more.

N. Y. STOCKS

(International News Service)

NEW YORK, July 17.—With the market inactive, prices of stocks were irregular during the forenoon today with the tendency downward. Pool operators bid up a few of the industrial specialties in the hope of attracting an outside following but did not meet with much success except in a few instances. Bullish enthusiasm continued on the wane.

Atlantic Refining was down ½ at 139 shortly before noon after having opened at 138¼. This stock has been under pressure on recurring rumors that the Rockefeller interests are sellers. General Electric had eased off ½ to 143¾, American can ⅝ to 81⅝, Curtiss Aeroplane ½ to 97½, Hudson Motor ⅜ to 79½, American Telephone & Telegraph ½ to 73⅞ and Studebaker ⅛ to 67.

Other issues held firm or moved up somewhat in face of this downward drift. Wright Aero was unchanged at 138, Radio Corporation advanced 1¼ to 161½ and Montgomery Ward jumped 2¼ to 184½. A bullish factor was the decrease of $251,000,000 in brokers' loans and discounts issued at the close of last week. It was interpreted in some quarters as foreshadowing another reduction this week.

Call money opened at 6 per cent.

Nearly 200 Bandits Surrender To U. S. Marines At Somoto

(International News Service)

WASHINGTON, July 17.—A group of 173 bandits and outlaws surrendered to American Marines at Somoto, Nicaragua, Sunday, according to a wireless to the navy department today from Rear Admiral David S. Sellers, in charge of the Nicaraguan patrol force.

More than 250 of the marauding bandits' army surrendered in the same zone 10 days ago.

Most All Traveling Men Use Auto To Make Trips Now-A-Days Says Slack

The travelling public, those men and women who are here today and gone tomorrow, selling this, that and the other thing, no longer depend on the trains to get from one town to another. More and more companies are furnishing their men with cars, because they can cover more territory and at less expense than they can when they make their jumps on the trains.

These are the observations of John I. Slack, manager of The Castleton, at which many of the travelers stay over night.

"Nowadays there are very few men come into New Castle on the train," comments Mr. Slack. "The 'company cars' seem to be the preferred way to travel. I venture to say that five out of every six salesmen who come into the hotel have cars.

"A funny thing about it is this: There is one case that I know where a salesman from one company which gives him a car teams up with another man, not selling the same line, of course, whose company does not furnish a car. They have been to New Castle about five times this year, and always they are together. I suppose they pool expenses, thus saving money.

"It is because of the fact that an automobile can go places where trains and busses do not that it is so popular. Then, salesmen are not tied down to any one schedule, and when they are on the road they can make a schedule to fit their needs.

"But it is true that the old 'drummer' who used to travel on the trains is fast disappearing."

Father-In-Law Of Hoover Near To Death, Feared

(International News Service)

PLACERVILLE, Cal., July 17.—Unconscious for the past 48 hours the condition of C. D. Henry, father-in-law of Herbert Hoover, was considered hopeless today in a bulletin issued by his physicians here.

Allen Hoover, son of the Republican Presidential nominee, is here and last night talked with his mother by long distance telephone. Young Hoover said there was a possibility she would leave her husband's westward tour and hasten to her father's side although nothing definite had been decided.

Strict Check On River Smuggling Urged By Doran

Doran Tells Prohibition Administrators To Keep Close Watch On River Fronts

May Be Found Necessary To Establish River Unit Patrols, Says Executive

(International News Service)

WASHINGTON, July 17.—Preparations to patrol the Mississippi, Missouri and Ohio rivers to check liquor transportation and moonshining were made Monday at the national gathering of prohibition administrators with Commissioner J. M. Doran.

Doran appointed a committee composed of three administrators, W. O. Mays of Louisville, Samuel Haley of St. Louis and S. O. Winn of Philadelphia, to draw up a tentative program for the patrol operations.

Houseboats and islands on the inland waterways are havens for moonshiners, Doran said. The rivers also are used for the transportation of vast quantities of liquor.

The patrols may be conducted by the administrators in the various districts touching the rivers or it may be necessary to set up a special river patrol unit in the prohibition bureau," Doran said.

Monday's conference of the administrator's head a talk by Mrs. Mable Walker Willebrant, assistant attorney general, who stressed the necessity of properly prepared evidence in making prohibition cases. Mrs. Willebrandt declared that the methods of enforcement are improving and that there is excellent cooperation between the prohibition bureau and the United States attorneys.

Cooperation of the customs service to enforcement was pledged by E. W. Camp, customs commissioner. He said that his bureau would do everything possible to assist the prohibition authorities.

At the Wednesday session of the conference reports will be received from all states as to the status of enforcement. Doran said that this would furnish a clear picture of the progress of enforcement in the last year and would form a basis for the attack on the trust in the future.

Doran urged on the administrators and necessity of strict economy in the use of public funds and offered several suggestions that may reduce the cost of enforcement next year.

To a hardened camper such as they are at Camp John M. Phillips, Lawrence county's Boy Scout camp, a hike of 14 miles is mere play.

Monday the entire camp of 72 scouts hiked to the Y. M. C. A. camp and back which makes a total of 14 miles. The hike will count as a part of the First Class test which requires a hike of 14 miles .

The scouts went by the way of the Perry highway, turned off and went down by Elliott's Mills. They returned by the way of the cement road to the camp.

Leaders set the pace and even the smallest boys had no trouble in keeping up the pace. Taking their lunch along the scouts ate at the Y camp after which they inspected the camp and went swimming in the pool under the supervision of their stockade leaders. About 2 o'clock they started home hiking single file along the cement highway. All the boys enjoyed the trip. After returning to the camp the scouts went swimming in their own pool.

Along the hike the scouts had time for their regular daily work. George Winter scored first by having 150 honor points. Each with 130 points, Harry Shannon, Clyde Shannon and Tom Rogers tied for second.

The only scalp which was presented was given to Bob Kennedy of Ellwood City. The scalp was that of Brave. Although he is a member of the kitchen police he can find time to pass his scalp requirements.

The mushball game was won by the Dave Thompson stockade when they defeated the Dan Boone's.

Already the scouts are working on the Indian pageant which will be presented Wednesday evening.

Roaming Round With Richards

Some News, Some Views, But Mostly Just Observations Of Interesting Things Around New Castle

These are days when a lift from some of you folks is appreciated. After sitting around a court room from morning until late in the afternoon any considerable roaming around is out of the question. That's when a letter comes in handy.

Got two this morning, both of them concern automobiles. One is from T. J. Davies of Young street who unfortunate enough to meet an accident near Brocton, N. Y., on July 7.

Those things come to every driver at one time or another. No matter how careful there are several accidents marked up for every driver and T. J. just got one that had been waiting for him for a number of years .His record up to July 7 has been well nigh perfect. but like everyone else his tires go flat when nails puncture them .And a punctured tire will throw any car at most any speed.

Another one is from an unsigned reader who clips the reference to speeders on Sheridan avenue and suggests that something similar be said for Atlantic avenue. Well all right, ditto. As a matter of fact the driver who doesn't take care on Atlantic avenue is writing his own ticket for trouble. Atlantic avenue is the front street for the residents of Oakland and the youngsters are more than usually numerous over there. And in addition there have been several fatal accidents on the street in the past five years.

You folks who thought there woud be no sunshine this year may be interested in the statement of Prof. Edwin Brant Frost of Yerkes Observatory to the effect that the sun will last for millions and millions of years yet. So perhaps all this rain we have had was just a temporary thing after all.

The county treasurer's office is a busy place these days. County taxes are payable at 5 per cent discount until July 31 and folks who have any sizeable tax to pay notice the rebate. The five per cent discount is good until the 31st and then face value during the month of August. Not a bad idea to pay them early.

Englishmen were unable to fall out of Loewenstein's airplane, even when they tried. Maybe they'll buy it, now, for the Prince of Wales.

State Health Secretary Warns Middle Aged Persons Against Exertion And Exposure To Sun

"The other day a gentleman of 50 went out on a tennis court for the first time this summer and violently played two sets under the hottest kind of sun. It was his 'day off' but now all his days are that way because he is dead. There is a moral to this story" said Dr. Theodore B. Appel, state secretary of health today.

"The sun is the most beneficient of nature's blessings. Indeed it is life's keystone. Without it all things would wither and die. But there is no use in overdoing the thing by boiling in its torrid rays under the misconception that the exercise one obtains overcomes the harm that a direct exposure to the summer sun can accomplish.

"As a mater of fact middle aged people should be extremely careful with their exercise when it involves an excessive amount of exertion and exposure to the sun's rays.

"The medical use of the sun to cure tuberculosis, rickets and other ailments has focused the attention of the public on its healing rays—and quite properly. But illness treated by this method under expert medical supervision is an entirely different proposition than bolting out of an office or a factory into the summer's mid-afternoon sun and exerting one's self to the limit. Even in institutions employing the sun's direct rays the application is controlled by exposure in the early morning and the late afternon hours. Individuals tempted to take advantage of this particular remedy of nature should understand that while use is beneficial, abuse may be definitely harmful and that it cannot be employed indiscriminately.

"Plenty of fresh air and sunshine are desirable both summer and winter. But a hot summer sun plus the extreme exercise of the baseball field tennis court or similar super-exertion is a combination to be avoided by those of middle age who are not trained to that sort of thing.

"It does not pay one to attempt to crowd a winter's physical inactively into one hot afternoon. Be an outdoor enthusiast by all means but play games geared to your age. And certainly give the sun a chance at you as frequently as possible. But with it all be sensible and respect the sun's destructive as well as life-giving power."
